

United States To Raise Voice At East Parley

Conference To Decide Fate Of Turks, Greeks Is Opened
At Lausanne

AMERICAN ENVOY PRESENT

Only Official Observers But Will Talk When Interests Are At Stake

By Associated Press
Lausanne—The Near East peace conference here was formally opened at 3:45 o'clock Monday afternoon.
President Haab of Switzerland, the presiding officer of the opening session, entered the hall at that hour and read his welcoming address to which Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary replied.

DECIDE TREATY
Lausanne—Switzerland, at whose capital and larger cities many international conferences have been staged, again is host for a gathering of diplomats who come to discuss one of the most important problems before the world at the present time—the problem of Turkey and the Near East.
Since the armistice convention ending hostilities between the Greeks and the Turks was signed at Mudania more than a year ago, the Near East peace conference, the plenary session of which is set for Monday, has been largely awaited as many complex questions among them the negotiating of a final treaty of peace between Turkey and Greece, the freedom of the straits, and fixing of the future status of Turkey, are to be discussed over the conference table.

Much satisfaction was evinced on all sides when it became known that the United States had designated its ambassador to Italy, its minister to Switzerland and Rear Admiral Bristol to watch the proceedings; even greater became the interest in the conference when a few hours before the session was to open it was intimated that the United States representatives would raise their voices at the meeting whenever it was in the interest of the United States and America to do so.

Premier Poincare will attend for France, while Great Britain's leading delegates will be Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, Professor Mussolini Italy's new Fascist premier, may also be present.

The French British and Italian statesmen after a lengthy discussion under unusual circumstances were reported to be in agreement on their attitude toward the main problems to come before the conference.

The municipal casino, which overlooks Lake Lemano, with snow crowned mountains on the opposite shore has been selected for the opening session of the conference. Out of deference to the request of the entire countries that a member of the Swiss federal council preside at the inaugural of the plenary session Robert Haab, president of the Swiss confederation, has been designated officially to open the conference.

The daily business sessions will be held in the hotel DuChateau on the Lake Side of Ouchy. The hotel has been specially renovated and decorated for the occasion.

Baden's hotels, abandoned during and since the war on account of unfavorable exchange, again are humming with life and activity; all Swiss society seems to have assembled here.

St. Louis—Steps to organize the wet forces in every state of the country to obtain modification of the Volstead act will be discussed at a two-day meeting of the National Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment which began here Monday.

Predictions were made by delegates that the liquor question probably would be the principal issue of the 1924 presidential election as a result of claims being made the wet won a sweeping victory in the recent general election.

Denial that a third major political Party favoring amendment of the Volstead law was planned, was made by delegates who said that wet candidates either Republican or Democratic would be supported and that where candidates of both major parties were found not suitable, an independent nominee would be supported by the association.

is expected to be the largest in high school football here. Every dollar

Marinette athletic field.

END SESSION OF CONGRESS IN 13 MINUTES

Adjourn In Respect Of Watson
And Nolan—President May Talk Tuesday

By Associated Press
Washington—Congress convened at noon Monday for the special session of two weeks called by President Harding for consideration of the administration ship subsidy bill upon which he is expected to address a joint session Tuesday.

The senate was in session only 13 minutes, adjourning without giving an opportunity to Mrs. W. S. Pelton of Georgia or any other new senators to take the oath of office.

The resignation of Senator Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, the central figure of a long and bitter senate controversy, will become effec-

WAITS FOR ANSWER

Washington—Mrs. W. H. Pelton of Georgia waited in vain for an hour and a half in the Senate Chamber Monday to learn whether senate leaders would permit her to take her seat as the first woman senator, in view of the recent election of Walter F. George as her successor. After much scratching of heads, over the problem the senate managers decided to let the decision go over until Tuesday.
From a place in the rear of the seats on the Democratic side of the chamber, the 37-year-old "grand old woman of Georgia," peered out through her spectacles upon the opening formalities of the special session and then without a mention of her name having gone into the senate record, saw an adjournment taken as a mark of respect for the late Senator Watson to whose place she had been appointed by Governor Hardwick.

At 12:15 o'clock the session terminated. Vice President Coolidge was unable at the brief session to present Senator Newberry's letter of resignation and the Michigan senator's name remained temporarily on the rolls.

In both senate and the house the gavel beginning the next session dropped a few minutes after 12 o'clock and then in both chambers there followed the usual formalities which attended the turning over of a new page in congressional history. The program on both sides was so arranged as to permit adjournment after these ceremonies until Tuesday as a mark of respect for the late Senator Watson of Georgia and the late Representative Nolan of California.

APPLAUD SENATORS

In the house the business of getting under way after the recess took considerably more time but the leaders deferred any actual consideration of legislation until after the president's address Tuesday.

Just before the senate convened in the house there was applause when Senator-elect Bayard, Democrat, of Delaware entered the chamber. There was another salvo for Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, veteran Republican leader who was reelected, and another for Senator La Follette, Republican.

Vice President Coolidge was conspicuously absent from the session.
Winifred Mason Huck, present to be sworn in as representative at large from Illinois, was the center of an ever moving group, eager to meet her.

CONSIDER UNION OF ENGLISH PARTIES

By Associated Press
London—A parliament in which Ireland, with the exception of part of Ulster, is not represented and in which the labor party appears, as the chief contender for recognition as the opposition opened Monday afternoon.

For a moment the clerk assumed charge of the proceedings but instead of speaking he merely pointed a finger at T. P. O'Connor, "father of the house" who promptly proposed John Henry Whitley for reelection as speaker. When this choice had been confirmed the house adjourned to receive the king's formal assent to its choice of speaker.

The Times, parliamentary correspondent asserts that the Liberals will not concede the Laborites claim for recognition as the opposition party. The writer expects that a compromise will be effected.

Arrest 3 Appleton Men For Robbing Dale Postoffice

DOROTHY GORDON AND LEADING FIGURES IN FIGHT OVER HER GUARDIANSHIP. BELOW (LEFT TO RIGHT): JOHN GARDINER, UNCLE WHO SEEKS GUARDIANSHIP; THE REV. ROLAND D.
SAWYER, MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATOR, WHO ARKS STATE IN-VESTIGATION OF INSANE ASYLUMS; AND WILLIAM JARDINE, GUARDIAN.

Boston—Is 22-year-old Dorothy Gordon sane or insane? All Massachusetts is waiting for the verdict of the court which is to resume consideration of the question Nov. 24.

A perplexing barrage of charges, denials and counter charges has focused all eyes on the girl prisoner in the McLean, Linsane asylum in Waverly.

As a sequel, the Rev. Roland D.
Sawyer, only clergyman in the Massachusetts legislature and member of the house committee on public institutions, demanded a state investigation of the McLean Asylum and the conditions surrounding the imprisonment of Miss Gordon.

Two men are fighting for custody of the beautiful young heiress—her guardian, William Jardine, and her uncle, John Gardiner, of Baldwin, L.
I. The latter, brother of Dorothy's mother, charges Jardine is unfit to handle her $400,000 fortune and to conduct the Gordon Supply company, the business founded by her father.

The guardian's fitness is the only question the court is asked to decide, but it will have a strong effect on the (question of sanity).

SENATIONAL CHARGES AIDED Sensational charges were aired at the first court hearing—that Jardine did not believe Dorothy insane when she was first taken to the asylum; that she was placed there to prevent her marriage; that she was detained against her will.

So bitter did the fight become that Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller, acting governor in the absence of Governor Cox, personally visited the asylum and talked with Dorothy. He says she told him she went to the asylum voluntarily.

Next came allegations that Dorothy had made an affidavit some time ago saying she voluntarily chose Jardine, rather than her uncle, as guardian.

Gardiner, the uncle, succeeded in obtaining court permission for himself and his attorney to visit the girl. Efforts of others to see her have been fruitless.

PHYSICIAN'S STATEMENT
Dr. Frederick H. Packard, head of McLean Asylum, denies Dorothy has been ill-treated there or that she ever expressed a desire to leave. She has been there 18 months and previously was there for a similar period, having once been discharged as cured, according to Packard.

Jardine has been the girl's guardian since her mother died in an automobile accident some years ago, her father having died previously.

RUM, BONUS TO BE PET TASKS OF CONGRESS

New Plan Would Make States Go 50-50 On Compensation For Soldiers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922 by the Post. Pub. Co.
Washington—Prohibition and soldier bonus were of sufficient importance in the last election as to be considered today by political Washington as the leading domestic issues before the country. President Harding has hinted that there is a shifting of views on prohibition and there are rumors that he himself will do some shifting on the bonus.

Authorized spokesmen for the president say he will veto any bill passed by congress similar to the one put up to him earlier this year. But before that time something concrete in the way of a bonus proposal may be expected from the executive. Whether mention will be made of the subject in the message to be read to congress at the regular session in December is not yet determined but there are many among the president's friends who advise him to take the initiative in the matter of adjusted compensation for the soldiers and propose something that his party can unite on.

WANT STATES TO PAY
The latest suggestion which has found support in administration quarters, though it cannot be said that Mr.
Harding will be won over to it, is one that looks to the federal government and the states to enter into a combination of a sort of 50-50 proposition just as has been the case with good roads. The federal government appropriates on condition that an equal sum is raised by a state and the quotas are divided according to the needs of the states.

Twenty-seven out of 48 states of the union are willing to give, but the last week, Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas, Montana and California voted

REDS HINDER NEW CABINET FOR GERMANY

Opposition To New Chancellor May Compel Him To Abandon His Job

By Associated Press
Berlin—Nearly a week has passed since the cabinet of Chancellor Wirth resigned, and the ministerial crisis is considered to be still unsettled. When Herr Cuno accepted the task of constituting a new cabinet of work, as he described it, it was hoped he would have most of the portfolios filled by Monday but such difficulties have developed that it is believed likely he may even abandon the effort altogether.

The chancellor-elect plans to secure himself in his plans to secure a cabinet made up of the middle and socialist parties, as the Socialists, opposed to what they term Herr Cuno's
"free hand policy" have voted through the Socialist party united board, to abstain from taking any ministerial portfolios.

As an alternative to giving up his efforts Herr Cuno may form a cabinet having a nonpartisan complexion, thereby hoping to gain some support from the middle parties and possibly from the nationalists. Even this, however, would cause him trouble as he would still have to contend with the antagonism of almost two hundred Socialist and Communist deputies.

Albright Brothers Admit Guilt and Implicate John McFarland, Brother-in-Law, Police Say—Part of Loot Burned

Capture of the alleged bandit gang which is charged with loot-ing the Dale postoffice Friday morning has been effected and the arrests may lead to the solution of a series of bank robberies in the county within the last six weeks.

J. A. Niles, United States postal inspector, who with Sheriff
P. G. Schwartz and Chief George T. Prim of the Appleton police department trapped the gang, left Monday afternoon for Green Bay to secure federal warrants against the two brothers, Philip Albright, 29, and John Albright, 25, and the latter's brother-in-law, John McFarland, 32, alias John Moran, alias Edward Kane, all of Appleton.

The men will be arraigned in United States district court in Milwaukee. The $120 in cash they are alleged to have stolen has been recovered in part, but the postage stamps valued at $300, United States treasury savings certificates in the sum of $625, war savings stamps valued at $175 and other valuable papers appear to have been burned.

AUTOMOBILE IS CLEW
The first clew leading to the arrest of the men was furnished by Weed Zehner, a farmer at Dale, who noticed what appeared to be one of the Ford Rental company cars parked near the scene of the robbery. The officers then proceeded to work from the Ford Rental company as a base. A charged $10 bill that Philip Albright had presented as a deposit on the automobile, he had rented aroused the suspicion of the officers. Whether this bill is one of a number of others that had been rescued from a blown safe in some bank robbery is a matter that is yet to be determined.

When Postmaster Harry Beck of Dale noticed Friday morning that the door of the postoffice had been tampered with and that the safe had been blown open and ransacked, he at once communicated with Sheriff Schwartz.
The sheriff went to Dale and secured the information relative to the Ford Rental car from the Dale farmer. Mr.
Zehner said he had noticed a red number painted on the automobile lens and thereby recognized it as one of the Ford Rental cars. The car was parked just east of Dale near Zehner's driveway. He noticed the car particularly, because "he had driven around it."

SUMMER DOWN EVIDENCE Insight was made at the Ford Rental company and through a process of elimination the evidence narrowed down to Philip Albright, who lives with his mother at 1116 Second st.
He had rented the car at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and returned it at 7 o'clock Friday morning. At the time he rented the car he made a deposit of $10. When he returned the car he paid $6.00 in addition. The bill was burned on the Ford. Albright was arrested Friday afternoon by Under-sheriff Earl Schwartz and Sergeant Earl Vandobogert.

After Sheriff Schwartz had taken the charged $10 bill as evidence and secured a warrant for Albright's arrest, he returned Friday afternoon in company with Sergeant James Moore, fingerprint expert, to the place where the car had been parked the night before. There they recognized the tread of the car and the sheriff picked up some of the postage stamps that had been dropped from the loot.

Inspector Niles of the postal department arrived at Dale Saturday and conducted an investigation there.
Meanwhile Chief Prim had questioned Albright in jail. Saturday evening a party of officers including Inspector Niles, Chief Prim, Undersheriff Earl Schwartz, Detective Joseph Schmirler and Officers Albert Deligen and Joe-eph Bayer went to 1547 Pine st., the home of John Albright, a brother of the man in jail. John McFarland, a brother-in-law of John Albright, who lived in the same home, admitted the men. He and his brother-in-law were told to dress and follow the officers, which they did without offering any resistance, as though they had expected the officers.

USE THIRD DEGREE
McFarland was lodged in the city jail, while John and Philip Albright were placed in distant cells in the county jail. From Saturday evening until about 2:30 Sunday morning Mc-Farland was put through a severe grilling. He was questioned on what he knew about the postage stamps that Sheriff Schwartz had found near where the rented car had been parked at Dale. Philip Albright was finally brought to the police station at 3 o'clock Sunday and there confessed.
A confession also was wormed out of his brother.

According to Philip Albright's story,
he took Mrs. John Albright and Mrs.
John McFarland to theatre and then while the women were at the playhouse, the three men planned the robbery. Philip described how he had obtained a ladder and how the men got up from the basement and blew up the safe. His brother waited at the automobile while McFarland kept guard near the building.

PAPERS ARE BURNED
After returning to the city, Philip left the men off at the corner of Carver and Outagamie sts., two blocks from their home. The stamps and books of stamps were then burned in the furnace, as were also the treasury and war savings certificates and other valuable papers belonging to Postmaster Beck. The war savings stamps belonged to sisters of the postmaster.
Division of the money was made by the brothers.

LET HUMANS DIE.
'TIGER'S' ADVICE

By American Press
New York—George Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France," Monday is to be the guest of Ralph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World at a luncheon at the Ritz Carlton hotel and will attend a reception by the France-American society at the home of Thomas W. Lamont. Sunday he visited the grave of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. Later he intends to journey to the graves of Washington and Lincoln.

The "Tiger" said he was feeling fine despite the strain of the last two days' receptions. He has no conclusion he declared, that American women were even more beautiful now than they were half a century ago.
Then, he added he had thought they could not be improved upon but two short days in twentieth century America had shown him his error.

Dr. Francis LeClerc, a physician who came to renew his acquaintanceship with Clemenceau, began in Paris years ago, heard the "Tiger's" story, grew to tell him of some new medical discoveries which might lead to the indefinite prolongation of human life, Clemenceau said:

"You keep quiet about that. Otherwise I will kill you. Cure the snakes, the dogs and cats, that's all right.
But leave human beings alone. Let them die happily."

Clemenceau declined an invitation to visit Canada, preferred to him by W. J. Morton, a Canadian journalist.
He declared that his program was carefully mapped out and did not permit him to accept any further invitations.

POLITENESS AND HONESTY INBORN IN THESE PEOPLE

Mexican People Discussed At Weekly Meeting Of People's Forum

Politeness and honesty are the outstanding characteristics of the native Indians, men, women and children of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, Mexico, according to Norton D. Brand, former Canadian consul to Tehuantepec, who addressed Appleton people in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening. Mr. Brand who described the Mexican southland and its native inhabitants as he knew them, spoke in an entertaining manner and his complete knowledge of the subject made it a fascinating one. His lecture was the third number of the Peoples Forum. The musical program consisted of several numbers by the Artillery band and the singing of America by the audience, led by Carl McKee. Dr. Samuel Plantz who was in charge of the program gave the invocation.

The city of Tehuantepec which has a population of 15,000 people is composed mostly of native Indians many of whom so closely resemble white people as to be confused with them at times. The women, who are quite beautiful, wear bright many colored costumes and the men although usually good looking are much less fastidious about their dress. The present inhabitants are the remnants of a prehistoric civilization, Mr. Brand said.

LIKE LONG NAMES

Although the Tehuanos will not tolerate rebuffs they have a fondness for lengthy names and the children in addition to their given names have the complete name of the father and the mother. The native woman retains the name of her father when she marries and it is added to that of her husband.

The Indians are extremely polite and as much as five or ten minutes is often wasted in deciding who is to go through the door first.

Honesty is one of the outstanding characteristics of the people who would never think of stealing from among themselves or from strangers. They consider each other ladies or gentlemen and their guests as such and are insulted if it is suggested that there might be need of locking doors. Another outstanding trait of their democratic spirit. They respect all persons and the little ragged peddler is as much a human being as anyone else.

The Tehuanos are very religious, somewhat superstitious and have peculiar churches. The women sit on the floor facing the priest and the men congregate without if there is not room to stand within. The men will never enter the house unless the women are in and seated as they believe in seeing that the women have their places first.

The Isthmus of Tehuantepec includes a fine country with great agricultural possibilities. The floral life is in most semi-tropical countries is beautiful and contains some rare specimens not seen in other regions. Among them is the melon tree which only lives for about six years but bears large melons five years of that time. Another rare specimen, a flowering plant known to Americans is the Friendship plant. Its blossom lasts only a day appearing white in the morning, turning pink by noon and perishing almost before nightfall.

Soldier bonuses. Seventeen states acted earlier, namely Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, and Wisconsin. In addition Colorado voted $200 to ex-service men for vocational training. New York state voted on record in favor of a $45,000,000 bonus but it got tangled up in constitutional difficulties. Pennsylvania's legislature in 1921 authorized submission of a constitutional amendment involving $35,000,000 but this is expected to be submitted again by the next legislature.

Twenty-seven out of 48 represents a majority but it doesn't reflect the true effect of the bonus sentiment because many states have been waiting on the federal government and the bonus movement hasn't received the impetus it would otherwise receive if the state were to know they were required to cooperate with the federal government.

President Harding is in favor of the bonus in principle. His whole argument has been that the federal government could afford to add to its national debt. He hasn't contended that the United States wasn't wealthy enough to pay a bonus but he has plainly feared the effects of piling the public debt higher.

NEENAH COUPLE, WAITING FOR STREET CAR, INJURED

Catherine Fiderstein and B. F. Wicklund, both of Menasha, were quite seriously injured at midnight Sunday when they were struck by a car driven by Al Sharp, Neenah, while waiting for an Oshkosh street car at Menasha. Miss Fiderstein received severe lacerations about the face, her nose was broken and her upper lip was nearly torn off. Wicklund's injuries consisted of a serious scalp wound and a bruised leg.

The injured people were removed to Theda Clark hospital.

E. F. U. TRUSTEE IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Word was received at the home of the Equitable Fraternal union at Neenah Monday of the accidental death of E. F. Devine, Albert Lea Minn., a supreme trustee of the order. Mr. Devine was killed in an automobile accident while returning to his home from a deer hunt. He had served the E. F. U. as trustee for about 15 years and was prominent in Minnesota financial affairs. He was a candidate for state treasurer of Minnesota in the recent election.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK; PHONE COMPANY DRIVER IS HURT

A northbound passenger train of the Northwestern Railway Co. collided with a motor truck owned by Wisconsin Telephone Co. at Second ave. crossing Saturday afternoon. Louis O'Connor, the driver, was thrown into the ditch, but escaped serious injury. The car was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital where he was given surgical attention and returned home the following day. The truck was slightly damaged.

MILWAUKEE MAN OWNED CAR RECOVERED HERE

The Ford coupe that was alleged to have been stolen by Edwin Barthel of Cleveland, Manitowish, and recovered last week by Chief George T. Prim of Appleton police department, belonged to E. R. Barnett, 333 Cedar-st., Milwaukee. It had been stolen on Sept. 8 from the corner of Eighth-st. and Grand-ave, Milwaukee. It was later purchased by A. N. Trossen of Appleton, without knowing that it was a purloined car. The car was turned over Saturday to Detective Howard Moran and two other Milwaukee officers.

The meeting is open to the public and is being sponsored by the missionary societies of the local churches, Appleton Women's club and the American Association of University Women.

Dr. J. A. Holmes will have charge of the program and Miss Louise Browne, dean of women at Lawrence college, will give a short talk taking the educator's point of view of the work in the women's colleges. Young women of the various churches will be ushers and representatives of the organizations sponsoring the meeting will have a prominent place.

The work being done in the colleges is exceptional and Mrs. Rowell has been chosen as the Wisconsin speaker to present the matter in order that the balance of a $3,000,000 fund may be raised. The raising of this amount will mean the possibility of educating a greater number of women in Oriental countries.

A. G. Koch and Gorge Walther have returned from the deer hunt, each with their coveted prize. The deer were shot at Lone Lake. Hunting conditions were very good, they say. At no time did they find it necessary to penetrate very far into the woods. E. Elliot of Gillett, who drove the car, said he saw no fewer than 19 deer.

ARREST 3 APPLETON MEN FOR ROBBERY

the trio according to which the Al-bright brothers took $70, while McFarland took $50.

An effort was made by the authorities to recover the money. John Albright was taken to his home to find the money which had been placed in a small tin can. This his wife had thrown into the garden, she said. A search failed to reveal the hidden treasure. Inspector Niles and Chief Prim again went in search of the can Monday morning and there found the can containing $114 in bills, some of them being burned on the end. MORE.

FIREARMS ARE FOUND

A search was next made for firearms. These were found by the chief and the inspector in a bag that had been buried in the garden. The sack contained two 38 calibre Smith and Weston special pistols. Both were loaded. A quantity of 35 and 45 calibre cartridges and shot gun shells also were found in the lot. In the house there was a new Remington automatic rifle, which was also confiscated.

The car occupied by the trio was also recognized by the familiar tread of the tires. It was found that while Philip Albright and McFarland were at work at the postoffice, the man at the car had scratched the number off the automobile lens.

Another incident that will be used by Inspector Niles against the men is the fact that the trio two or three days after the robbery of the Bank at Oneida made a trip to Winona, Minn., and several cities in Iowa. The Albright brothers traveled by train to Winona, where they were to meet McFarland, who was to go there in his Buick car. From there the men proceeded to Dubuque and other Iowa cities. At Dubuque McFarland registered as John Moran. When the car had become

CHARGED IN ILLINOIS WITH THEFT OF AUTO

Peter Seitz was arrested at Neenah Saturday and taken to Manlius, Ill., to plead charges filed against him involving the theft of a Ford sedan owned by Stanley Hewitt of Manlius. The car was one of a number of others that Chief Watts of Neenah had recovered resulting in the arrest of a gang of automobile thieves. Seitz maintains he is innocent, saying he had purchased the car from a man at Springfield and drove it to Neenah. He has been employed in a Neenah factory.

GOT A JOLT

Saturday afternoon about two o'clock just after the Lawrence Foot-ball parade, a well decorated car came down Washington st with a man seated in a chair on the top of the car. As the car approached the intersection of Morrison and Wash- ington streets it was necessary for the decorated car to stop so as not to run into another machine. As the brakes were applied the man in the chair was nicely removed to the pavement with a sudden jar. He was not hurt except for a few bruises.

NOW WATCH THE PIPE LINE

Why pull your head off on a plugged up pipe when you can use this man's invention without cost or very great effort. I saw a man coming down the street the other day having very evident trouble with the pulling capacity of his pipe. As he passed a free air station, a bright idea came to him. He inserted the tube into the pipe, his troubles were ended. That satisfied smile which comes only to the face of pipe lovers spread over his countenance. Since it was only a short time ago, you can do the same for his hat not had time to have his idea patented.

MORAL: DON'T GET EXCITED

While going to school Thursday morning "I spied" a Buick car going north on Morrison st. hit an Oakland going east on Atlantic st. The Buick was going at about 30 miles an hour. It hit the Oakland squarely on one of the rear wheels taking the wheel off and breaking the axle. The man owning the damaged car was so excited he forgot to take the other car's license number.

FORDS IN COLLISION

Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock I saw two Fords collide at Franklin and Oneida sts. The car coming from the west ran into the one coming from the north and turned it half way around and then ran into a telephone pole before it could be stopped. The machine had its radiator and front light so badly damaged that it had to be taken to the garage. The other car had its fender bent. No one was injured.

FLYING TEMPER AND FUR

A man, a bicycle and two dogs were mixed up in an accident on Dillon st. Thursday which resulted in the man losing his temper, the bicycle losing a wheel and the dogs nearly losing their lives. The two dogs were having a fight and chasing each other from one side of the road to the other when the man on the bicycle came along. One dog in his effort to get away from his enemy lunged into the bicycle, knocking the man off and causing the front wheel to become badly bent. The man said some harsh things to the dog before he picked up the vehicle and walked away.

SHE MISSED HER CAR

On East College ave Saturday, I saw a woman hurrying out of a baker shop to catch the street car. While she stopped to make repairs the car went by and she had to walk home.

STOPPED TOO SHORT

On Sunday morning about 9:15 I saw an accident in front of the Elks club. A Paige sedan stopped abruptly in front of the club. An Overland was coming from the east and was making a large bend turning to the north and collided with the sedan. No one was injured, but the bumper was torn from the sedan. The latter had the right of way.

WOMAN TURNED HIS HEAD

Thursday afternoon I noticed a Ford truck owned by one of our local transfer dealers pulled up in front of a house immediately off from Spring st. on Harrison, preparatory to loading on some furniture standing on the porch.

A woman came along and the transfer man spoke to her and asked if she wanted to ride along downtown. She answered in the affirmative and he helped her into the truck, got in and started off. The lady from the house came running out and called after him and he got to the corner before he heard her and noticed he had loaded on all the furniture in his excitement over taking the woman down town.

For the maintenance of the county system of prospective state highways or county trunk system, $25,000 has been appropriated, $10,000 for machinery and $15,000 for administration.

What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 83 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of causes and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting as close to nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have never seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 28 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to a druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, piles, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

attempt to arbitrarily fix prices. What it attempts to do is to reduce the cost of production to a minimum and to realize for the producer the maximum market price at the lowest expense of marketing. The exchange is to the citrus industry what the United States Steel corporation is to the iron and steel industry. The way to economic independence and prosperity to the farmer is through cooperative business management rather than through politics and politicians. Favorable legislation, which will protect the rights and interests of the farming industry and afford it equal opportunities and facilities, is well enough and is needed, but in the absence of effective cooperation and resourceful business direction of the industry such legislation will be of little avail. In the last analysis the future of the farming industry is in the hands of the farmer himself, and no one else.

THE FARMER AND COOPERATIVE MARKETING

The California Fruit Growers exchange is the oldest cooperative farmer marketing organization in the United States. It is known throughout the country as probably the most successful farmer marketing agency in existence. Its record and achievements well illustrate what intelligent business cooperation among farmers can do for their industry.

We have before us a report of the California Fruit Growers exchange on the handling of the 1921-1922 citrus crop of that state, under conditions that ordinarily and without this cooperative agency would have brought very great loss to the producers. During three nights in January the citrus crop of California went through a disastrous freeze. It is estimated that it reduced the production to approximately 34 per cent of the original estimate. The balance of the damaged crop was saved and realized on only because of the intelligent and prompt action of the exchange. The high reputation of the exchange among the trade and the consuming public enabled it to dispose of the crop at great advantage to the producer, nearly 13,000,000 boxes of oranges and grape fruit, and more than 1,000,000 boxes of lemons being salvaged.

Illustrating the business efficiency of the exchange the report shows that California received $74,366,164 for the 1921-22 citrus crop, the delivered value of which in the markets was $95,993,485, and this included $21,627,021 for freight and refrigeration. The cost to the members of marketing the crop was 7.7 cents per box, which was less than the cost of marketing the crop ten years ago by the same organization and it is asserted to be less than the present marketing cost of any other perishable agricultural crop. Today the California Fruit Growers exchange is an example of business competency and integrity standing in the same class with our great banking institutions and mercantile establishments. It has the confidence of the entire country. Its success not only in emergencies like that of last winter, but in a general way, has been achieved only because the producers are working together wholeheartedly for the best interests of the industry, and because brains direct the organization.

We have a duplicate of the California Fruit Growers exchange in our own community, on a smaller scale, in the fruit growers exchange of Door county. This year it successfully marketed the greatest cherry crop in the history of Door county. It did this in the face of unfavorable market and labor conditions. Cold storage was introduced to save the surplus and to await better prices. This organization has acquired a reputation for integrity that is already a great asset with the fruit producers of that county. The consuming public knows that when it gets a box of fruit through this exchange it is assured of quality at right prices.

What these and other growers do, the agricultural producers of the country at large can do. And therein lies the future and prosperity of the farming industry more than in anything else. Business cooperation of this character will do more for the farmer than all the politicians in all the ages combined. In California there are thousands of producers in the exchange. If thousands can successfully engage in cooperative marketing and growing, tens of thousands can do so, yes, hundreds of thousands. It all depends upon intelligent direction and organization. The California exchange has brought about systematic financing of distribution, extensive national advertising, cooperative purchasing of supplies, standardization of grades and efficient distribution.

THE SEVEN KINDS OF ITCH

It is curious how some folks itch without any apparent reason, that is, no visible skin trouble, yet others who appear frilly alive with reasons itch not at all. If one could have a conveniently accessible itching spot, with aseptic skin and nails, what a joy it would be to scratch that spot. But this searching around for the spot that itches is very exasperating. A mosquito bite is not so bad if you can reach it; a hive or two is nothing to get excited about; but there is something maddening about the uncomfortable itching caused by the assault of the nimble little guest that has no wings, but sets there just the same.

There are at least seven great types or classes of itch, the first of which embraces parasitic invasions of the skin, such as scabies (the old fashioned itch) (ringworm), ground, dew or toe itch (invasion by the larvae of the hookworm). Another type of itch includes the skin lesions of poisoning by various chemicals used industrially or medically, and erythema and hives from individual sensitization to certain proteins.

A third type of itch of the well washed, the too thoroughly washed classes, known as pruritus, winter itch, bath itch, senile itch. Then there is the itch caused by certain ungrateful guests that rush up and attack the host and then rush off again—such as mosquito and bedbug itch. Fifth, the itch caused by guests that live on but not in the skin, such as the well known school visitor, Pediculus, familiarly dubbed "company." The itching of such guests is inflammation of the skin as the dermatitis of ivy poisoning is what I call exquisite as compared with that of occupational poisoning by orthoform, for example, and I speak with much feeling. Finally everybody knows that the chronic scalled catarrhal inflammation of the skin associated with the exudation of serum which dries and crusts more or less—eczema—is one of the commonest types of itch.

Many terms are popularly used in connection with itch, such as Cuban itch, Philippine itch, French itch, prairie itch, Texas mange, lumberman's itch, Ohio scratches and elephant itch. None of these terms has any exact meaning, but refer to anything from scabies to pruritus and even scaphox.

The moral to be drawn from this discourse, friends, is that it generally takes more than a neighborly view to tell what is itching you. Unfortunately that remedy which is effective in the treatment of, say pruritus dermatitis has little or no value in the treatment of scabies, and a medicament which is mighty grateful in scabies is likely to aggravate eczema. This isn't very illuminating for any one who may be in quest of something good for some kind of itch. If I knew of anything good for itch in general I'd gladly mention it here, but having seen some very unhappy results from injudicious use of the right medicine for the wrong kind of itch I will close these few lines, thanking you for your kind attention and hoping you will not scratch long before you find a good doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

After The First Four Bottles

I have been reading four of the movements of the Brady Symphony which have in one of your articles some time ago. The results have been surprising. I feel years younger and have changed my attitude and viewpoint materially. Would you kindly forward me the complete symphony, also the technique of the backward roll or somersaults you referred to in a recent talk—(M. H.)

Answer—You forget the recipient must always prepay the freight. If you will repeat your request, accompanied by a properly self directed stamped envelope, I should be glad to send you a diagram and description of the Somersaultauqua, but when it comes to rolling 'em backward, you must learn that on your own. It is great fun and good medicine. I roll 'em backward myself. But you understand I have no extensive ground for the burial of the dead and so I have to go easy on the backward stunt. About one in each thousand freshmen in this course who tried the forward rolls swore he broke his neck doing it. I want to keep the mortality low. Nobody who can get down and roll half a dozen somersaults on the floor is old. Anybody who can roll half a dozen or a dozen backward, coming up smiling each time, is still young. This is just as good and scientific as any test there is. Some poor old geezers think it is just a joke; they do not take this somersault stuff seriously. Let 'em learn to roll and roll right back again, if they can, and then they'll begin to see that it is life that is a joke, and they won't take life so seriously.

Tuberculosis

Three months ago my doctor told me my right lung was affected with tuberculosis. He has been giving me regular treatment for tuberculosis, and now I have gained 21 pounds and the doctor says all danger is past and I am almost entirely cured. Is it possible I could have recovered from tuberculosis in three months? Do you advise me to go to southern California or New Mexico?—(M. B. J.)

Answer—Certainly it is possible. Tuberculosis is the most curable of all serious chronic diseases, if intelligently treated, and that implies early recognition of the disease, as in your case. I should advise no change of climate unless your doctor thinks it necessary.

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion.

THE PROHIBITION VOTE SEEMS MORE OR LESS INCIDENTAL

The result of the vote which was directed toward prohibition modification in the recent election has been studied more or less carefully by editors throughout the country and as usual, when a problem of such magnitude is presented, it is impossible to find a common ground for agreement.

In one suggestion, however, all find a ground for unanimity, and that is that the issue cannot become vital during the life either of the present Congress or in the early days of "that which is to come." The Presidential campaign of 1924 will get it and then it will be determined whether it is to be an issue of itself or one to be merely reckoned with merely as containing potent possibilities.

"Prohibition," the New York TIMES says, "was given to the country by both political parties and both will probably be extremely deliberate about consenting to any modification of it." The viewpoint of the New York EVENING WORLD, however, is distinctly opposite to this in that this newspaper insists "there was a popular verdict and no uncertain verdict either. Slowly the country is regaining its balance. It finds tyranny and hypocrisy getting on its nerves."

While the Syracuse HERALD does not expect any legislation "during the next two years" the attempt "to liberalize" the Volstead act will be serious enough to inject the issue of prohibition enforcement into the next general election in many states.

The "real question" in Massachusetts, where the majority against making an act similar to the Volstead law, that of Massachusetts, was in the opinion of the Springfield UNION, distinctly whether the voter favored Volstead rules, and it argues that "upon that question the verdict was so conclusive as to leave no doubt as to the preponderance of public opinion. If ratification of the 18th amendment in other states besides Massachusetts had been referred directly to the people it may well be questioned whether the amendment would have been sustained."

The "strength of the present movement," the Baltimore NEWS is convinced "is very different from that of the forces which strove to fight prohibition off four years ago. It arises after a hard test of the merits of national prohibition enforcement, after a failure which few people thought would be a failure. Previously the Federal authority had been thought inviolable. None dreamed of such impotence as has been disclosed and the impotence to prohibit has been only confounded and made worse in its effect by the constitutional and statutory impotence to remedy conditions by resort to regulation." The trend in the country is also toward restoration of "personal liberty," as the Buffalo TIMES sees it, because the people are "acutely mindful of the tremendous burden of expense. In the three years of its trial Volsteadism and its enforcement have cost the country ten billion of dollars. A leading factor in the national protest against it was the indignation of the public because of the rack, rot and ruin which the Volstead act and the recent rulings for enforcement of it on our ships have condemned the American merchant marine."

As a protest "the result chronicled" to date is "not impressive," so far as the Mobile REGISTER is concerned. "It does not show that widespread revolt against prohibition that the vote throughout the country shows against Republican leadership, and it is not likely to make any profound impression upon Congress." Regardless of personal opinion it would seem to be the view of the Roanoke WORLD NEWS that both sides to the question should recognize that, after all, the elector's will must prevail in this matter of prohibition rests in its last analysis with the voter, and election day's results plainly show that in many quarters said voter is slipping. Probably the "N'th word" on the subject, from the dry side at least, comes from Former Secretary of the Navy Daniels' newspaper, the Raleigh NEWS & OBSERVER, which declares that "the amendment ratified by nearly all of the states will remain in the constitution. No legislation permitting the sale of intoxicants will pass congress and no such legislation could stand an appeal to the courts." To which positive insistence the Chicago TRIBUNE interposes the suggestion that "we hope the old American saloon never will regain a foothold, but intelligence and sound social ground somewhere between debauchery and intolerance, and surely it can be found. The vote indicates a search for it."

In connection with the verdict in New Jersey the Hoboken HUDSON OBSERVER insists that "the inference is that the 'unmistakable' verdict will be needed by the Republican party leaders and the Anti Saloon League's powers will be curtailed." Because of this, and many other considerations, the Brooklyn EAGLE is inclined to feel that "the sentiment for change to make the dry law keep within the eighteenth amendment's extension of Congressional powers is growing. It need not grow a lot to be successful. And those who sympathize with it may be pardoned for fearing that their fellow workers may not maintain keen interest in the subject so long as the varied dry organizations will, for in many dry minds the distinction between the Amendment and the Volstead law is lost sight of and Prohibition is made an issue between righteousness and unrighteousness at election."

The New York verdict, which was challenged by Superintendent Anderson of the Anti Saloon League in a short letter to Governor-elect "Al" Smith, brought from the Newark NEWS the question whether such a letter does not "go a long way to show why, in so many sections, an ipathy to the Anti Saloon League and its dictatorial whip-cracking was registered so impressively at the election." The personal defeat of Representative Volstead, even though he is eclipsed by a "dry" of the most arid type, convinces the Wheeling REGISTER that hereafter bills submitted modifying the enforcement act "will not be smothered in committee as in the past, but will be brought to the floor of the house and forced to a vote. Thus, even the dregs may actually control the lower branch of the legislature, it will be possible to place members on record as for or against prohibition legislation, thus giving the electorate a chance to more closely differentiate in 1924."

It is the feeling of the Peoria TRANSCRIPT that "moralizing about John Barleycorn in 1923 is tomorrow. The issue before the American people is whether they propose to abide by a constitutional amendment which they supported with their eyes open." The St. Paul PIONEER PRESS, suggesting that the "wets have gone mad," thinks that the recent vote was one of expediency alone. The Boston CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR on its part insists that "the Nation is in no danger of being dominated by a small group of states." Imperious enforcement in its turn has had a vital effect on the result, the Cincinnati ENQUIRER declares, while the Shreveport JOURNAL simply suggests that "when national prohibition was voted some states voted against it, just as some states today would favor its nullification, but the big majority is for it."

FEW PREMIERS WIN WEALTH

The news that Lloyd George is to receive something like $500,000 for his forthcoming book on the war brings into prominence the question: Are British premiers rich men?

Glancing back over the history of British politics in the last hundred years, I can answer that question in the negative. The salary of prime minister has been for a long time $5,000 a year (normally $25,000). Thus the highest political official in the British empire receives less pay than does many a head of private business firms.

Pitt died bankrupt, Chatham was often on the edge of circumstance and Disraeli at times had one foot in the bankruptcy court.

The state, in paying the prime minister this ridiculous sum, takes back from him most of the first $2,000 by way of income tax and super tax. This leaves him only $3,000 odd.

HOUSE DRAINS PURSE

The drain upon his own pocket, as a penalty of living at No. 10 Downing, is so great that his salary is practically swallowed up. The state gives him the use of the historic No. 10 in the dingy little street of power but the premier has to pay heavy household charges.

Coal, gas, light, servants, countless breakfasts to all sorts of people from Welsh Nonconformist orators to remote foreign wirepullers and schemers—ministerial dinners, many expenses on account of the charitable and social movements of the premier's wife and his sons and daughters—these and many other things are a bleed of public and private pulls on his purse.

A very large household staff is necessary. It is true that the premier does not have to pay for the solemn doorknockers and the velvet-footed office messengers, for these are employed by the treasury. But that only applies to the official side of No. 10.

HOSPITALITY EXPENSIVE

The variety of the prime minister's duties means heavy expenses and the greatest of these is hospitality. All the entertaining, in press circumstances, comes out of the premier's pocket.

A salary of $5,000 a year, minus heavy taxes and drained by special obligations, cannot be said to be monetary payment for the head of one of the greatest governments in the world.

From a money payment side of a British premier's life it may be summed up in this, that his remuneration for being political head of the state is smaller than that of some of the men over whom he presides; that it is infinitely smaller than the amounts of money he could make out of the state in a trivial way compared with the staggering multiples of millions sterling that are involved in many of the decisions which he and his cabinet have to make day after day.

PROMPTING CHAIRMAN

The art of chairmanship is better understood in the United States than in Great Britain, but I remember one gentleman who somewhat confused me by his obvious forgetfulness of my name and work, which would be more mattered at all, had he not endeavored painfully to recall these insignificant facts.

"We have on our platform tonight a man whom it is unnecessary to introduce, whose name—er—whose name—er—" Here he paused and thought strenuously, without effect—"whose name—er—is indeed a household word. All of you here, men and women, have read his well known book, with that remarkable title, with—er—that remarkable and familiar title—er—"

Another long pause during which he traveled into the far recesses of his memory—"entitled, as you all will recall—" (A brilliant bit of improvisation.) "Then it found me, my name and work, which would be more mattered at all, had he not endeavored painfully to recall these insignificant facts."

BRUTALITY OF SPORT

Paris—Some people to whom I have expressed the opinion that boxing is less brutal than baseball, have thought that I was merely attempting to be paradoxical. But now that I have had more time to reflect on the matter I am more convinced of it than ever.

Reflect on the daily reports of split fingers, sprained ankles, splinters, consider how often a pitched ball hits the batter on the head, sometimes with serious consequences. Any of these accidents of daily occurrence disables the player, frequently for weeks, occasionally for the better part of a season. And yet, quite rightly, people do not consider baseball a "brutal" sport.

"Ah, but you miss the point!" rejoins somebody who has never seen a prize-fight and "hopes he never will." "When we say boxing is brutal, we do not mean because it injures the participants, but because of the moral effect on the spectators. Seeing two men maul each other savagely cannot help having a brutalizing effect."

Again I think of baseball games I have seen, where some close decision has unchained the anger of players and spectators alike, where fists and bats have been waved menacingly (sometimes blows landed) and where pop-bottles have been hurled from the stands amid shouts of "Kill him, the robber!" Nothing was at stake but one game out of a series of 150 or more, and yet thousands of people worked themselves into an almost murderous passion over what they all knew was at worst an honest error of human judgement.

I compare this with the attitude of the participants and spectators at the only boxing match I have seen. There were eight or nine bouts, and some fifty thousand people looking on. Each bout might determine, not merely 1-150th of the result of a season, but the whole of a man's boxing career. And yet fighters and spectators alike seemed far less partisan, far less excited, than a similar crowd at a baseball game. The interest was intense, concentrated. Every move of the two men in the ring was closely followed. When a skillful blow was struck there were murmurs of "bravo!"—very much the kind of half-suppressed murmurs that one hears at a tennis-match. And if there was any move, by either fighter that seemed a trifle unfair, there were gentle murmurs of disapproval.

I was especially struck by the spirit of sportsmanship both in the ring and in the stands. Striking below the belt, for example, is a foul, and yet, in a rapid mix-up, with your target moving at lightning speed, it is sometimes impossible to avoid striking a technically unfair blow. This happened frequently. The man who struck it would, by word or gesture, as "Did I hurt you?" The other would smile and shake his head and they would touch hands and go at it again. Or of course if a foul is struck hard enough to hurt, the striker is disqualified. This happened twice during the afternoon, the better man being disqualified each time, but everybody accepted the decision with good grace, including the loser.

Incidentally I might say here that Carpenter's adventures in the movies have given him an overweening vanity in place of the sportsmanlike spirit that was once his. He has degenerated morally as well as physically. I will not dwell on the interesting subject of the effect of movies on this sport, further than to add that another cinema evil is allowing fighters to share in picture profits. This gives them a direct interest in making the fight last as long as possible, and in injecting pectoral effects. The boxing rules should provide that if fighters receive anything for movie rights, it should be a fixed amount, not contingent on the length or success of the film.

There is just one other point that I desire to make, namely that I do not know any other sport in which one can so easily watch the play of brain against brain as in boxing. "Inside baseball," for example, is a thing that one must be a pretty experienced "fan" to appreciate. But at every moment in a boxing match one can see the contestants developing their strategy, elaborating changing systems of attack and defense, analyzing the other man's plan of campaign.

A fighter, no matter how powerful could not get far if he depended on force alone. If he lost his temper and his judgement, he would soon be at the mercy of the cooler, even though weaker, man.

The physical, rather than the psychological, rather than the same interesting, and that makes it not brutalizing but highly educative and instructive. I came away from the match with a better opinion of only of boxing but of sport in general.

PROGRESSIVE YOUNG CHINA

Paris—Young China gives proof of progressive spirit, judging by the clauses of its civic catechism, published in the REVUE DE PARIS. The moral and altruistic traditions of the doctrine of Confucius are shown in the following ideas:

"How can we young men, at our age, best be patriotic? By fulfilling all our social duties, even the very smallest of them. In a large machine, when the small parts are in perfect working order, the whole works well and quickly like a clock. Let us give our whole mind to what we are doing, for our own good and for the good of others."

"By forming our character, by striving for a strong character, an altruistic character. . . . Too many of the Chinese are like children whose legs will not yet carry them. They only know how to ask help from others, without doing anything themselves. Too many Chinese are like sponges which absorb continually without giving anything. We must learn while we are young to give of oneself. A man who leans on others is never free; a nation which does not know how to give is selfish."

"By watching over the safety of our country. Formerly China was considered as the property of the Emperor and no citizen occupied himself with its fate; everybody said that is the concern of the preceptor. China is now a Republic. She belongs to nobody in particular. She is the common property of all her citizens. Therefore they all owe her their work and their devotion. The citizens must be one with his country, in prosperity as well as in adversity."

CORSIKA UP TO DATE

Paris—The Corsican banditti are moving with the times, as is shown by the following account from the OEUVERE of a meeting with the notorious Romanetti, whose differences with the law constrained him long ago to take to the hills with the rifle as his constant companion:

The little village of Vizzanova, perched on a mountain 4000 feet high, is proud of Napoleon Romanetti, who is one of the richest land-owners of the region and styles himself Governor of Corsica, and it represents the stories that are current of the brigand's deeds of violence. Quite recently some tourists, staying at the Grand Hotel de Vizzanova, climbed up to the farmstead of Pozzi and learned that Romanetti and his friends were there. They sent forward a parlementaire to ask if their presence would be agreeable to the bandit. Romanetti himself returned answer that he would be delighted to see them and be their host.

True to his promise Romanetti entertained the strangers very hospitably, and after dinner exhibited his prowess with the revolver. Before leaving the tourists pressed him to return their visit. He accepted without hesitation.

Romanetti called for his motorcar, and, surrounded by his faithful friends, set forth for Vizzanova. All went well. The brigand showed himself a delightful guest, and finally, at 2 in the morning, Napoleon Romanetti took an affectionate leave of his host, and calling for his motorcar, once more repaired to his mountain fastness.

30 Years Is No Bar To Active Life

Mrs. Cornelius Meyer, Potato Point, Quietly Observes Birthday

In the best of health and able to do her own housework in her beautiful emerald overlooking Fox river at Potato point, Mrs. Cornelius Meyer is celebrating her eightieth birthday anniversary Monday. There was no ornate gathering, but many friends and relatives called to extend their congratulations.

Mrs. Meyer and her husband, who is active as she at 81 years of age, belong to that group of thirty settlers of the earlier days who helped to convert Outagamie into a prosperous farming community.

EARLY SETTLERS

Mr. Meyer came to United States 54 years ago and Mrs. Meyer has been here 47 years. They came to Wisconsin when the country was new and sparsely settled and when the Indians still were enjoying the life of the forest. Purchasing a tract of wild and of 62 acres between Ballard and Freedom, they built a cabin and set about to clear enough land so they could make a living at farming. They made progress year by year until the entire 63 acres was under cultivation. Thirteen years ago the couple gave up the arduous farm task and moved to Potato point, where they had purchased 15 acres on the river front from J. A. Hawes, former Mayor of Appleton. They built an attractive homestead, where they have enjoyed their years of retirement.

LOVES RIVER

Potato point, with its ravines and massive shade trees is a miniature paradise to Mrs. Meyer. "I love my home more than I can tell you," she said. "It is so beautiful there. We are at a bend of the river and I can sit for hours and enjoy the scenes." She also believes there is no country like America, for she says, "Mr. Meyer and I think everything of this country. We have liked it ever since we came here and would not think of going back to Europe, or to Netherlands, where we came from. There you were nothing if you worked for a living. Here a person who works hard is appreciated by his neighbors. Everybody has a chance to make a success and live in comfort."

Kenny of the First Wisconsin National bank of Milwaukee, spoke to members on "Woman in the Financial World."

Miss Kenny stated that women should be educated to know how to handle their financial affairs and she advised a budget system for the person without a family as well as those with one. That women should not invest their money without some knowledge of the investment was one of the points strongly emphasized by Miss Kenny.

Oats Ready Before the coffee

Instant Quaker Oats Cook in 3 to 5 minutes

Quaker Oats now comes in two styles—the Instant and the regular. Instant Quaker, perfected by our experts, is the quickest cooking oats in the world. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

Both have the flavor which has made Quaker Oats supreme. Both are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, savory oats. We get but ten pounds from a bushel.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Take your choice. If you want the Instant Quaker look for "Instant" on the label.

ROSETTA SEGAL WINS LATIN PRIZE

Appleton Girl Is Second In Lawrence Contest—Green Bay Girl First

Miss Rosetta Segal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Segal won second place in the latin competition for freshmen at Lawrence college and received the Lawrence prize of $100 according to announcement made in chapel on Monday morning. Unique Chinese Dinner Served Dr. and Mrs. Plantz While In East

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Plantz who returned from a trip to New York on Saturday were guests at several interesting parties while away. The annual party of New York Alumni association took place at the apartment of Miss Nellie Waldo. The guests included 26 former Lawrence students from almost as many classes. Speeches were made by Herbert Miles, Mr. Kwei, V. B. Millar and Dr. Plantz. Miss Waldo sang several songs and Mr. Tsu sang several Chinese songs. One of the entertainment features of the evening was a group of pictures of college days which each guest had been requested to bring with him. The pictures proved to be a great diversion.

Four Chinese students who have graduated from Lawrence are now attending Columbia university. They were hosts to Dr. and Mrs. Plantz at a Chinese dinner served in a Chinese restaurant. The young men planned the menu and then had the eight courses cooked at their favorite Chinese eating places in New York. Both Dr. and Mrs. Plantz were delighted at the novelty of having a Chinese meal as the Chinese would serve it. The students, they say, are very fond of Lawrence and of Appleton.

On the Friday before their return Dr. and Mrs. Plantz were guests at the inauguration of Charles Elms as president of Syracuse university. More than 135 delegates from colleges and educational societies were present at the elaborate ceremonies. Dr. and Mrs. T. W. B. Crafer were at the dinner following the ceremonies. Dr. Crafer, formerly instructor at Lawrence, is the head of the economics department of the University. The Rev. W. D. Marsh, formerly of Appleton and a trustee of Syracuse university also was present. Dr. and Mrs. Plantz also attended in New York the reception for the American Academy of Sciences given by the Carnegie foundation and at which there were many distinguished scientists.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Losselyong, Mr. and Mrs. C. Feuerstein and Miss Julietta Bruckers spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruckers at Dundas.

Stolen Kisses Put 'Pep' Into Pirates' Party

Three kisses caused much excitement at the dance given by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity at Elk hall on Saturday evening. After a treasure hunt with boxes of candy as the treasures, one "old grad" who had found the boxes gave one to his wife, one to one of the chaperones and put a price of three kisses, given to another of the old grads by any girl in the party, on the other. Without a moment's hesitation, a young lady arose from her seat beside her escort, marched boldly across the floor and kissed the man in question three times and demanded the box of candy. Amusement at her courage ran high until it was whispered about the party that the young lady was a cousin to the man in question.

The dance, which was the first fraternity dance of the season, was planned as a pirate's cruise. All the young men wore girdles and kerchiefs and carried knives (in their pockets) during the dances. The program of dances was arranged to follow the itinerary of the cruise and the hall was decorated to give the effect of a ship. Royal Garden Five of Oakkosh furnished the music. More than 50 couples were present.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward-ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

STATE ROAD BODY HIT BY MANITOWOC

County's Power To Use Appropriations Is Usurped, Officials Say

Manitowoc—Members of the county board and citizens of the city at an informal meeting went on record to declare that the state highway commission is endeavoring to usurp power in so far as spending money is concerned, which rightfully belongs to the local counties. The sentiment in all probability will deter another vote in this county on a $3,500,000 bond issue for building concrete highways.

The meeting was called to take up the referendum of eight questions submitted by the highway commission as a proposed form of resolution, which was sent to all county boards of the state in order to secure sentiment on general phases of highway legislation.

Addressing the gathering, District Attorney C. L. Brady declared that all through the eight proposals there was a definite plan of merging activity into the central office at Madison. Mr. Brady declared that if the board members and others declared themselves in favor of the proposals the county highway commission will become merely a rubber stamp.

SCORES ALLEGED SECRECY

Joseph Connell, county highway commissioner, criticized the commission for its alleged secrecy as to road plans. He said all county commissioners were notified to work in the dark because they never had knowledge of what the state plans are. Mr. Connell favored a change in the commission to give road plans each year before improvements are made to declare the acceptable route in each county and cooperate with the county committee so that some work will not be done in vain. H. G. Kress, secretary of the Association of Commerce said he believed the city would favor a bond issue but that road construction power belonged to the board as a body.

Kaukauna—Night prowlers got away with a new form of robbery last week in Brillion according to W. H. Hope, part owner of the Buick-Chevrolet service garage in that city. Mr. Hope was a visitor here Friday. The thieves gained admittance to the building by forcing the door and completely dismantled two new Chevrolet trucks. They took everything but the frame and the engine. Even the transmissions were removed. Tires were taken from the wheels, but the guns were left behind. Evidently the pet cock of one of the oil chambers was in demand for it was taken off and the oil was allowed to run over the floor. The top of one of the cars also had been partly removed. The loss is estimated at about $600.

RUSSIA AND SWEDEN GET TOGETHER ON FINANCES

Stockholm—A new Russian effort to establish closer financial and commercial relations with Sweden is seen in the arrival in Stockholm of Aaron Scheinman, head of the Russian State Bank.

Mr. Scheinman has declared that the bank which he heads may place its foreign assets and clearing funds in Swedish banks, providing a safeguarding agreement can be arranged between the two countries. He has come here, he says, to enlarge the financial co-operation between Russia and Sweden. He considers Sweden one of the safest countries for the deposit of money, owing to its independent position and its well-ordered conditions.

The Russian State Bank, declares Mr. Scheinman, has acquired 36,000,000 gold rubles through its foreign exchange operations, and the end of the present year will add 50,000,000 to the total figure. The main purpose of the bank is to finance state industrial enterprises.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by tuning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c. adv.

ANOTHER CLINIC FOR MOTHERS AND BABES ON TUESDAY

Dr. VanCleve Comes Here To-morrow To Suggest Health Improvements

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Dr. Mildred VanCleve will be ready to examine Appleton children of preschool age at Appleton Women's club-room, where the monthly clinic has been established under the direction of the health department of the club. When Dr. VanCleve came to Appleton for two days in October she examined 81 babies, many of them were in need of special attention and a few of which were perfect specimens of babyhood. At the first clinic the doctor was able to give attention to children under two years only, but in the monthly clinics she will take children up to six years.

Many women who were not able to bring their babies to the first clinic will take advantage of Tuesday's opportunity. Dr. VanCleve will also examine expectant mothers. The clinic is absolutely free, having been made possible by the Shepard-Towner bill. When Dr. VanCleve came the first time, she explained to the health department that a monthly clinic could be maintained here and the department, which has done much health work under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Russell and former chairmen of the department, made preparations for the event at once.

The members of the department have made most of the materials used in the clinic and even made the money with which to purchase them. For the first clinic most of the things were borrowed but when it was learned that examination of children was to be a monthly affair the department decided that it needed a certain amount of equipment.

Wife, Her Four Children Dead, Flees Destitution Of Russia; Joins Husband

Happy Reunion Occurs After 8 Years Separation When Mrs. Adolph Mueller Arrives—Took Year To Free Her

After being two months on the way, Mrs. Amelia Mueller of Moscow, Russia, wife of Adolph Mueller, who is in charge of the repair department of Schweitzer & Langenberg shoe store, joined her husband Friday, ending a separation of more than eight years. She was 15 days on the ocean and had an exceedingly rough voyage. Her husband met her at Neenah and took her direct to a home on College-ave which he had provided for her.

Her four small children, three boys and a girl, whom the father left with her when he started for the United States to seek his fortune, were not with her. They are buried side by side in Siberia, where they died of typhoid fever within a few days of each other. For more than three years during the war the parents were unable to communicate with each other.

HOMES BURNED

At the time he came to the United States Mr. Mueller left his family in Russian Poland. When the Germans invaded that part of the country the inhabitants burned all their property and fled to Siberia. Mrs. Mueller and her four children, the oldest of whom would have been 13 years had she lived, traveled for six months, often without food and shelter, before they reached their destination. The children survived the trip less than a month.

In due time some of the people worked their way back to Kasan, Russia, where they made their home. Mrs. Mueller was among them and was there for nearly four years. From there she went to Moscow. At the time she reached Kasan, Mrs. Mueller did not know the address of her husband, nor did Mr. Mueller know the address of his wife. She enclosed a letter to him addressed to Oshkosh in one which a friend mailed to a Milwaukee relative and after considerable delay it was forwarded to him at Appleton. After getting in communication with each other it required a year for Mr. Mueller to get transportation to his wife and for her to get her necessary papers. Most of the work was done with the assistance of the Red Cross. Mrs. Mueller was greatly fatigued from her long journey when she reached Appleton. The ground had been covered with snow for some time when she left Moscow, she said.

APPLETON INTERESTED IN BOYS SEEKING HOMES

Announcement that the Rev. E. C. Brayton, superintendent of the Children's Home Finding Society of Wisconsin has two boys for adoption created considerable interest Saturday and Sunday and several inquiries have been received. The boys, who are 11 and 14 years of age, instead of 12 and 15 as was stated Saturday, would like to be taken into the same home or if that is not possible, be placed as near to each other as possible. They are boarding with Appleton families and are attending school where they are making excellent records.

Goes North On Deer Hunt; Bags 200-Pound Bear

While deer hunting in Forest-co. Frank Wagner of Twelve Corners had his attention attracted to a pile of branches and leaves beneath a fallen tree. He dug into the head with a stick and disturbed a bear asleep. The animal apparently was as much surprised as the hunter and before it had time to escape Wagner killed it with his rifle. The bear weighed 200 pounds and is now on exhibition at Voeks Bros. market. It was the first bear killed in that part of the state for 12 years it was said.

Wagner captured a Canadian lynx at Apple Creek three years ago. It measured more than six feet in length and he received a bounty for killing it besides getting a good price for its furry hide.

MILK WAGON AND TRUCK WRECKED IN COLLISION

A farmer living near Gillingham corners, on Highway 15, is congratulating himself on his escape from serious injury or death in an accident Saturday morning when his milk wagon was demolished after it was struck by a truck owned by a DePere transfer company. The farmer's wagon was struck in the rear by the truck and totally wrecked but the driver and his horses escaped injury. The truck ran into a ditch and tipped over on the interurban track, blocking traffic. Automobiles were used to convey passengers on the interurban line until the wreckage was cleared away.

The FLAMING JEWEL

In its own mysterious way the news penetrated the wilderness; and out of the desolation of forest and swamp and mountain drifted the people who somehow existed there—a few shy, half wild young girls, a dozen silent, lank men, two or three of Clinch's own people, who stood silently about in the falling snow and lent a hand whenever requested.

One longshanked youth cut him lock to line the grave; others erected a little fence of silver birch around it, making of the enclosure a "plot."

A gaunt old woman from God knows where aided Mr. Lyken at intervals; a pretty, sulky-eyed girl with her slovenly, red-headed sister looked for anybody who desired nourishment.

When Mike was ready to hold the inevitable reception everybody filed into the dance hall. Mr. Lyken was master of ceremonies. Trooper Stormont stood very tall and straight by the head of the casket.

(Clinch wore a vague, indefinable smile and his best clothes—that same smile which had so troubled Jose Quintana.)

Lien was fading fast in the room when the last visitor took silent leave of Clinch and rejoined the groups in the kitchen, where were the funeral baked meats.

Eve still slept. Descending again from his reconnaissance, Trooper Stormont encountered Trooper Lannins below.

"Has anybody picked up Quintana's tracks?" inquired the former.

"Not so far. An Inspector and two State Game Protectors are out beyond Owl Marsh. The Troopers from Five Lakes are on the job, and we have enforcement men along Drowned Valley from The Stair to Harrod Place."

"Does Darragh know?"

"Yes. He's in there with Mike. He brought a lot of flowers from Harrod Place."

The two Troopers went into the dance hall where Darragh was arranging the flowers from his green-houses.

Stormont said quietly: "All right, Jim, but Eve must not know that they came from Harrod's."

Darragh nodded. "How is she, Jack?"

"All in."

"Do you know the story?"

"Yes. Mike went into Drowned Valley early last evening after Quintana. He didn't come back. Before dawn this morning Eve located Quintana, set a bear-trap for him and caught him with the goods—"

"What goods?" demanded Darragh sharply.

"Well, she got his pack and found Mike's watch and jewelry in it—"

"What jewelry?"

"The jewels Quintana was after. But that was after she'd arrived at the Dump, here, leaving Quintana to get free of the trap and beat it."

"That's how I met her—half crazed, going to find Quintana again. We'd found Mike in Drowned Valley and were bringing him out when I ran into Eve."

"I brought her back here and called Ghost Lake. . . . They haven't picked up Quintana's tracks so far."

After a silence: "Too bad this snow came so late," remarked Trooper Lannins. "But we ought to get Quintana anyway."

Darragh went over and looked silently at Mike Clinch.

"I like you," he said under his breath. "It wasn't your fault. And it wasn't mine, Mike. . . . I'll try to square things. Don't worry."

He came back slowly to where Stormont was standing near the door.

"Jack," he said, "you can't marry Eve on a Trooper's pay. Why not quite and take over the Harrod estate?"

"You and I can go into business together later if you like."

After a pause: "That's a rather wonderful offer, Jim," said Stormont. "But you don't know what sort of business man I'd make—"

"I know what sort of officer you made. . . . I'm taking no chance. . . . And I'll make my peace with Eve—or somebody will do it for me. . . . Is it settled then?"

"Thanks," said Trooper Stormont, reddening. They clasped hands. Then Stormont went about and lighted the candles in the room. Clinch's face, again revealed, was still faintly amused at something or other. The dead have much to be amused at.

As Darragh was about to go, Stormont said: "We're burning, Clinch, at eleven tomorrow morning. The Ghost Lake Pilot officiates."

"I'll come if it won't upset Eve," said Darragh.

"She won't notice anybody, I fancy," remarked Stormont.

He stood by the veranda and watched Darragh take the Long Trail through the snow. Finally the glimmer of his swinging lantern was lost in the woods and Stormont mounted the stairs once more, stood silently by Eve's open door, realized she was still heavily asleep, and seated himself on a chair outside her door to watch and wait.

All night long it snowed hard over the Star Pond country, and the late gray light of morning revealed a blinding storm pelting a white robed world.

Toward ten o'clock, Stormont, on guard, noticed that Eve was growing restless.

Downstairs the flotsam of the forest had gathered again: Mr. Lyken was there in black gloves; the Rev. erend Laomi Smatter had arrived in a sleigh from Ghost Lake. Both were breakfasting heavily.

The pretty, sulky-faced girl fetched a tray and placed Eve's breakfast on it, and Trooper Stormont carried it to her room.

She was awake when he entered. He set the tray on the table. She put both arms around his neck.

"Jack," she murmured, her eyes tremulous with tears.

"Everything has been done," he said. "Will you be ready by eleven? I'll come for you."

She clung to him in silence for a while.

At eleven he knocked on her door. She opened it. She wore her black wool gown and a black fur turban. Some of her pallor remained—traces of tears and bluish smears under both eyes. But her voice was steady.

"Could I see Dad for a moment alone?"

"Of course."

She took his arm; they descended the stairs. There seemed to be many people about but she did not lift her eyes until her lover led her into the dance hall where Clinch lay smiling his mysterious smile.

Then Stormont left her alone there and closed the door.

In a terrific snow-storm they buried Mike Clinch on the spot he had selected, in order that he might keep a watchful eye upon the trespassing ghost of old man Harrod.

It blew and stormed and stormed, and the thin, nasal voice of "Rev. Smatter" was utterly lost in the wind.

The glancing lanes of snow drove down on the casket, building a white mound over the flowers, blotting the hemlock boughs from sight.

There was no time to be lost now; the ground was freezing under a veering and bitter wind out of the west. Mr. Lyken's talented assistants had some difficulty in shaping the mound which snow began to make into a white and flawless monument.

The last slap of the spade rung with a metallic jar across the lake where snow already blotted the newly forming film of ice, the human denizens of the wilderness filtered back into it one by one. "Rev. Smatter" got into his sleigh, plainly concerned about the road; Mr. Lyken betrayed unprofessional haste in loading his wagon with his selected assistants and starting for Ghost Lake.

"CHATTER!"

Darragh in blanket outfit, a pair of snowshoes on his back, a rifle in his mottled hand came trudging up from the lake. He and Stormont watched Lannins riding away with the two horses.

"He'll make it all right, but it's time he started," said the latter.

Darragh nodded: "Some storm. Where is Eve?"

"In her room."

"What is she going to do, Jack?"

"Marry me as soon as possible. She wants to stay here—for a few days but I can't leave here here alone. I think I'll telephone to Ghost Lake for a coach."

"Let me talk to her," said Darragh in a low voice.

"Do you think you'd better—at such a time?"

"I think it's a good time. It will divert her mind, anyway. I want her to come to Harrod Place."

"She won't," said Stormont grimly.

"She might. Let me talk to her."

Stormont hesitated, looked at him, nodded. Darragh stood his rifle against the bench on the kitchen porch. They entered the house slowly. And met Eve descending the stairs.

The girl looked at Darragh, astonished, then her pale face flushed with anger.

"What are you doing in this house?" she demanded unsteadily.

"Have you no decency, no shame?"

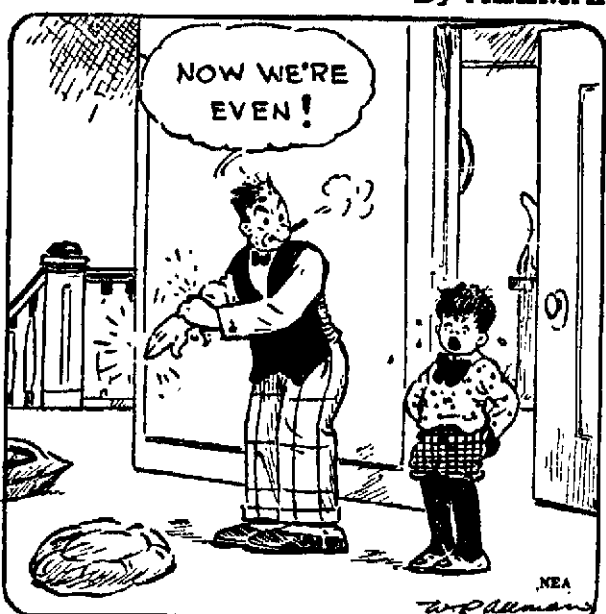

"Yes," he said, "I am ashamed of what my kinsman has done to you and yours. That is partly why I am here."

Red Cross Needs Fund For Soldier Service

Treasury Is Low Although Disabled Men Need Much Help —Postwar Work Is Main Activity Now

Outagamie County Red Cross chapter emerged from one year's work ending July 1, 1922 with a balance of $797.58 after one of the most active years in its history, according to a report prepared by Miss Ann Helm, secretary.

Most of this money has been used since in work for former service men and the roll call now in progress will replenish the treasury so the office may be maintained approximately one year to finish execution of claims for disabled men. There are more than 300 such claims still pending with the government and requiring constant followup work through the Red Cross and Wisconsin service office of the American Legion.

Receipts for the year are shown in Miss Helm's report as $4,540.55 and the expenditures $3,891.41. A balance of $4,155.49 from the previous year was what made possible the financing of the work without a deficit. The program which required this amount of money included salary and maintenance of city and county nurses. The former work was discontinued and the county has taken over support of the county nurse. The activities now are centralized largely on the work for former service men, with one secretary handling the entire office detail and county field work.

$3,280 FROM ROLL CALL
Receipts from the 1921 roll call amounted to $3,280 and from the Junior Red Cross, $134.73. Fees from health classes amounted to $319.77 and from interchapter activity, $220.47. Other miscellaneous receipts brought the total for the year ending July 1, 1922 to $4,540.

Expenditures of $7,897.41 for the year to July 1 included $512.85 for social work up to Jan. 1, 1922 and $3,122.38 for city health work. This included salary, materials and other expenses of the city nurse from July 1, 1921 to March 1, 1922 and an item of $851.98 for a special instructor who conducted nursing classes in the county for ten weeks.

Among the general disbursements of the county chapter was payment of $1,216 to central division of the Red Cross for national postwar and emergency work, $1,080 for postwar activities, $721.96 for administrative expenses, $120.18 for garment production, $111.72 roll call expenses, $213 to county branches out of roll call receipts, $528.51 for miscellaneous and emergency expense and $361.81 for Junior Red Cross work.

PAID FOR OPERATIONS
Operations for children in Second district school amounted to $25.50. In the Third district, $35 was paid for dental inspection, $25 for tonsil operations and $6.10 for examination for child. A family was supplied with milk, which amounted to $13.02.

Scales were purchased for Richmond school at a cost of $31.85. Tonsil operations in the Fourth district amounted to $24.50, and hot lunches, $10. The chapter paid $60 for tonsil operations at Shiocton, $5.30 for materials at Oneida and $18.98 miscellaneous nursing expenses.

Balances in treasuries of county chapters on July 1, 1922 were: Black Creek, $196.75; Dale-Medina, $230.40; Ellington, $99.89; Hortonville, $361.38; Kimberly, $204.79; Seymour, $1,253.78. The total in the branch treasuries therefore is $2,346.99. No balance was reported at Bear Creek.

Louis Milbow of Grand Rapids, Mich., visited Appleton relatives Saturday, while on his way to Niagara, where he has accepted a position in the Kimberly-Clark paper mill.

Why Internal Baths Always Assure Vigorous Health

There's one good reason why you don't feel just as vigorous and confident one day as you do the next—

Also why most so-called healthy people are half sick all the time—

And this will continue to be so until we all do heavy manual labor every day or take an occasional Internal Bath.

The real reason for this is truthfully told in a little book "Why Man of Today is Only 50% Efficient", which I will be glad to give you free on request.

There are scientific facts here given in simple English, which are not commonly known—so why not ask for your copy today.

Be sure to call for your free tube

By merely filling out the coupon in this advertisement and taking it to any one of the druggists listed below you may receive a full-sized 10-cent tube of Listerine Tooth Paste—a very superior dentifrice made for you by the makers of Listerine.

It makes tooth-brushing a pleasure

Give this original fruit acid dentifrice a thorough, conscientious trial. Note what a clean, fresh feeling it leaves about the mouth and teeth. And see how much brighter and whiter your teeth will gleam than they ever did before.

"It makes your mouth water"

When you brush your teeth with Listerine Tooth Paste you will at once notice how it makes your mouth water. This is because it contains the wholesome acid elements of four delicious fruits—apple, orange, grapes and grapefruit.

These mild fruit acids stimulate an extra flow of tooth-protecting alkaline saliva which Nature provides to fight conditions that start tooth decay.

Soapy dentifrices cannot do this because they are necessarily alkaline instead of acid. They discourage Nature in her effort to preserve tooth-health and lead you to unnecessary discomfort, unsightly teeth and needless dental bills.

And a safe cleansing agent

Besides its mild fruit acids together with the healing oils that have made Listerine itself so popular and safe an antiseptic for the last half century, Listerine Tooth Paste contains exactly the correct polishing ingredient. It is a non-gritty cleanser—just hard enough to remove the daily accumulations of tartar, but not so hard as to injure the tooth enamel. You know this paste is doing its work—yet doing it safely.

Redeem your coupon
this week!

Be sure to hand your druggist the coupon below this week. This offer is in effect only one week.

Secure your free full-sized 10-cent tube and enjoy the pleasure and satisfaction of really clean teeth—teeth made clean both scientifically and safely.

LAWRENCE WINS, HIGH SCHOOL LOSERS IN GRID GAMES

Hamline Bows To Blue In Sharp Battle For Midwest Championship

McChesney's Team Scores Field Goal And Touchdown For 9 To 0 Victory Over Minnesota Stars

The best that Minnesota could put in the field was not quite good enough to stop the best in Wisconsin at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon when Lawrence, champions of the Little Five, led Hamline, champions of Minnesota, by a touchdown and field goal, thereby securing at least a tie in the race for Midwest conference honors. Doering's dropkick in the first quarter gave the Blue its first three points and Basing's touchdown in the final period gave Lawrence six more. A perfect pass to Berry over the goal line was fumbled just as the latter was about to touch it down, thereby losing the extra point. The score was 9 to 0.

This score probably is representative of the comparative strength of the two teams. Lawrence was able to present the strongest front to the invaders while Hamline was handicapped by the loss of Kaplan, its great quarterback, who was so severely injured in the game with Carleton a week ago that he could not get into Saturday's battle. He hobbled into the field in the second period to try a dropkick from the 37 yard line but the ball fell far short of the goal posts. Immediately after this pathetic attempt he was taken out and stayed out for the remainder of the game.

FIELD SLIPPERY
A slippery, muddy field handicapped both teams, although long runs and brilliant dashes were not altogether lacking. Kotal and Goan Lawrence's speed boys, however, were unable to get started as well as they would on a dry field.

The brilliant defensive work of Doering, Curry, Berry, Blackburn and McGlynn staved off the hard hitting Hamline team. Time after time the Scarlet warriors were spilled before they were well started especially after the Blue cradled the line to solve the puzzling shift which Hamline employed. The Scarlet was weak in passing while Lawrence showed remarkable strength in that department.

INTERCEPT PASSES
More than half of the Hamline passes were intercepted and a great majority of the remainder were grounded. On the other hand Lawrence gained consistently with its air attack. McChesney's intention to "reach" the ball with his hands and fingers checked the Hamline heaves to check their advance or recover blocked punts. In the last two minutes of the game Hamline was pushed back to its own goal line and forced to punt out. The first punt was blocked but a Scarlet-jerseyed man recovered it. Again a punt was tried and again it was blocked and when the pile of men and arms was cleared up a Blue-sweatered man was on the oval only half a minute was left not enough to score another touchdown and the game ended with Lawrence holding the ball on Hamline's four yard line.

At least two thirds of the game was played in Hamline's territory but the Lawrence goal was threatened three or four times. In those extremes the Blue defense was impregnable and when the invaders found they could not gain through the wall they resorted to punting. Curry grabbed one of these punts on his own 20 yard line and raced 70 yards to Hamline's 20 yard marker before he was caught. Basing's passing and plunging was wonderful. But he had plenty of help in the backfield. Goan showed more drive in his plunging game than ever before and Curry was a bear at tearing holes through the line. Kotal, while he played a great game, running his team well and making several excellent gains, was unable to get started on the slippery field as well as he could on drier ground.

TWO STRONG LINKS
Hamline's line was the best which opposed Lawrence this year, providing a worthy opponent for McChesney's famous forward wall. The constant battering, however, wore down the invaders and near the end of the fracas the Blue backs aided by their plunging forwards, were able to gain more easily.

Curry's long run after interesting a pass, dashes by Kotal and Curry after catching a pass thrown by Lawrence backs were the feature plays from the standpoint of the Blue. Hamline did not fail to provide its thrusts, however. Just at the close of the first period Pedlar grabbed a kickoff on his five yard line and dashed through the Lawrence team to his own 45 yard marker before he was pulled down by Kotal. In the third period, Sowles got through the Blue line for a 45-yard dash but Doering got him from behind after he had eluded every Lawrence tackler except Kotal.

McChesney's men had more than a half dozen chances to score and tried hard to use everyone of them. When Hamline stiffened as its goal posts were endangered, Kotal would call for kicks and three times Stoll and once Basing essayed placekicks but not one succeeded. Doering tried three dropkicks and on his second attempt the ball went between the posts.

Hamline didn't give up when the tide turned against her. Even with their backs to the wall, the Hamline men fought hard, struggling against the crushing attack of the heavy backs of the Blue. It was a thrilling climax to a successful season for Lawrence.

FIRST QUARTER
Hamline kicked to Kotal who returned to the 30 yard line. Ruchelman went through tackle for 7 yards on the first play, but Curry was stopped dead on the second. Ruchelman added another two yards and with one more yard to make on the fourth down, Curry crashed through for 10. A pass, Ruchelman to Kotal, in which the latter gained 30 yards after grabbing the ball, put the oval on Hamline's 15 yard line. Ruchelman gained two yards on two tries and then Kotal carried the ball in front of the enemy goal posts. Doering changed his kicking shoe and standing on the 25 yard line, tried a drop kick but the ball was blocked and Hamline put it in play on its 10 yard line. The Scarlet punted on the first down to its own 35 yard line. Kotal started a long end run but slipped and fell, gaining only a yard. Ruchelman went nine yards in two plays, giving Lawrence a first down and Basing went in to take his place. Kotal's 6 yard dash and Basing's two tries, which netted six more, put the ball on Hamline's 16 yard line. Two attempts to gain through the line and one effort to pass failed and Basing tried a place kick from the 30 yard line. The ball missed the posts by about three feet and went to Hamline on its 20 yard line. Two plunges at the line were stopped and then a punt blocked Hamline recovering, giving Lawrence the ball on Hamline's 15 yard line. Grierson took Curry's place at fullback. Three smashes at the Scarlet line netted only one yard and then Doering tried his second drop kick. Standing on the 25 yard line he booted the ball squarely between the posts for the first score of the game.

LAWRENCE 3, HAMLINE 0.
Lawrence kicked off to Pedlar who ran 45 yards to his own 48 yard line just as the quarter ended.

SECOND QUARTER
Hamline put the ball in play on its 45-yard line. Sowles crashed through for 12 yards and first down in the first three plays and Pedlar added six more. McMann was thrown by Doering for a six yard loss and Sowles punted over the Lawrence goal line. Three Lawrence tries netted only five yards and Berry punted to the Hamline 30 yard line. McMann lost a yard. Pedlar was held at the seven yard line and then Sowles got away for a 25 yard gain around his own right end. Stoll replaced Berry at Lawrence left end after that play Sowles made two yards and Pedlar added nine more, giving the Scarlet added down on the Blue 30 yard line. Lawrence held fast and Hamline failed to gain a yard in three tries. Kaplan was injured into the game at this point to try a dropkick from the 27 yard line but his boot fell into Kotal's arms who returned to his own 15 yard line. Basing gained two yards in two tries and then Grover punted to Kotal recovered. Basing punted to Hamline's 45 yard line on the next play. Sowles gained seven yards on the first play, two passes were grounded and Hamline punted to Kotal who was downed on the 29 yard line as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER
Goan replaced Basing at halfback. Berry went back at left end and Sowles took Dennerly's place in the Hamline back field as the third period started. Hamline kicked off to Kotal who ran back to his own 25 yard line. Goan plunged through his own left side for 13 yards on the first play. Kotal was stopped in his tracks, giving Berry punted to Hamline's 20 yard line. Sowles gained two yards in two tries and then Sowles broke through the right side of the Lawrence line for a 45 yard gain which put the pigskin on Lawrence's 25 yard line. Sowles ripped through for eight more yards and then tried a pass which Kotal intercepted but he was tackled so hard that the ball dropped out of his hands and Hamline recovered on Lawrence's 20 yard line. Kotal was knocked out in the play but soon recovered. McMann was injured for a loss of a yard and then the huge crowd got its biggest thrill when Curry intercepted a pass on his own 10 yard line and dashed 70 yards to the Hamline 20 yard marker, spoiling Hamline's best chance to score. Goan made four yards in two tries and then Basing rushed in to take Grover's place. A pass was grounded and Doering tried a dropkick from the 25 yard line but it was short and wide. Hamline got the ball on its 20 yard line and Sowles gained two yards on two tries and then Curry was thrown back 5 yards when he tried an end run and he punted to Berry on the Scarlet 45 yard line. Basing gained a yard. Goan added six more and Kotal put on 10 more when he caught a pass from Basing. Goan and Curry who had taken Grierson's place, made it another first down and the period ended with Lawrence threatening Hamline from its 20 yard line.

FOURTH QUARTER
Failing failed to gain on an attempted end run and put the ball near the side lines. Kotal attempted to run it back but was thrown for a five yard loss. Stoll was sent in to replace "Red" Smith and tried a place kick from the 30 yard line but it went wide. Hamline starting on its 20 yard line was penalized five yards after two plays failed to gain. A pass was grounded and another, Sowles to McMann, gained 12 yards. With three yards to gain on fourth down, Pedlar gained only 2 1/2 and Lawrence got the ball on Hamline's 30 yard line. Basing passed to Doering on the first play for a 23 yard gain which put the ball on Hamline's 7 yard line. Basing crashed over for four yards in a smash at the line added three more in his next try and then reached over the Hamline goal for a touchdown on his third attempt. He passed to Berry behind the Hamline goal for the extra point but Berry dropped the ball.

STATE ELK PIN TOURNNEY HERE

APPLETON IS AWARDED 1923 ELK CLASSIC

Executive Committee Of State Elks Bowling Association Meets Here Sunday

Appleton Elks again will entertain the annual Wisconsin Elks bowling tournament in 1923. It was decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the Wisconsin Elks Bowling association here on Sunday. Appleton entertained the bowlers in 1922. The next tournament will be held from Jan. 27 to March 4, inclusive.

The tournament originally had been given to Fond du Lac but a few weeks ago the Fond du Lac Elks announced they would not be able to take care of it and consequently it was necessary to find another city to take it over. No other city put in a bid and therefore the tourney was awarded to Appleton.

Last year's tourney was the largest and most successful in the history of the organization. About 230 teams were entered and the scores and prizes were excellent. The splendid entertainment provided last year was a big factor in inducing the tournament committee to award the 1923 meet to this city. The local tournament committee has not been appointed.

The executive committee meeting here was attended by George Hilton of Oshkosh, Tony Van Beek of Green Bay, E. P. Wierck of Neenah, M. A. Smith of Wausau, B. A. Huston of Fond du Lac and H. L. Davis of Appleton. Hilton presided in the absence of Gus Kent of Sheboygan, president of the association.

ROD AND REEL

By Dixie Carroll

WHAT THE TROUT LIKES
As the streams clear up a bit and the waters fall to about normal the trout are more on the feed, and their food at this time consists of worms, leeches, crabs, helgramites and other underwater forms that are carried down to them by the flowage of the stream and live worms used with skill and care will get the fish, while you can cast your arm off with a fly and probably get nothing but practice, which is not what the average fisherman is looking for.

There is quite a difference between worming for trout and fishing for trout with worms. Merely to hook on a couple of worms and throw out your line, letting the current carry it down half the time buried in mud and hidden by debris until a trout happens to nose it out and swallow it, is not worming for trout by any means. That is pure and simple still fishing, about as lively as fishing for sunnies, and neither sportsmanlike nor much fun.

The real early season sport with the worm is to use the same tackle as in fly casting and to cast into the most likely spots. Covering the swirl of water around the partly submerged bowlders, dropping your worm above the cut-under bank so that it will carry down along the hiding place; around the roots of trees and in the pools formed by the piled up brush and debris; and most important of all in the rapids and shallow pools and at the head of pools where the water is a bit swifter and more active, here you will generally find the big fellows gorgeing themselves. That's what make 'em big—always sticking around where the feed is the thickest.

The rigging for worming for trout is a simple affair. Take the ordinary trout rig of two small hooks, about No. 8 size, tied to a looped leader. Tie this on your leader and you can either take one large sized worm and hook it on the top hook, leaving the short end to wiggle, and then hook it down farther on the second hook, allowing the other end of the worm to dangle loosely, or you can take two smaller sized worms and slip one on each hook, inserting the hooks through the middle of the worms. This latter method is usually found more effective, as the worms are far more active, and the more wiggle to friend worm the greater the interest created among the trout. And in the early season, after a hard winter and the high cost of trout setting new altitude records, believe me, there is nothing more alluring to the trout than the aforesaid. O. K. TAXIS COP MATCH GAME FROM MILWAUKEE TEAM

Knuth's Morgenroth Bowlers Lose By 168 In Game Before Large Gallery

Displaying a good brand of bowling, the O. K. Taxis of Appleton defeated the Knuth's Morgenroth quintet of Milwaukee, winning two out of three games and by a total of 163 in the match rolled Sunday afternoon on the Eagle alleys.

The contest was staged before a large gallery, extra seats being necessary to accommodate the fans. The Milwaukeeans, stars of the Arcade alleys of their city, lived up to their reputation by rolling a consistently fair game but failed to go above the 200 mark and that's what cost the match. "Pop" Neuman was the outstanding star for his team, rolling 194, 196 and 165. F. Gearson was the star for the home team and got the highest mark in one game with 246 pins and finished up with a total of 604. Oscar Kunitz was next highest with 231 pins in the second game and a total of 579.

Following the match the Appletonians entertained their guests at a banquet. A return match will be rolled at Milwaukee in the near future.

MARINETTE EASY FOR TOLEDO TEAM

Toledo, O.—The Scott school team of this city beat the Marinette, Wis., high eleven 45 to 19 Saturday afternoon in a game which abounded in long runs, despite the muddy field. Marinette is the first team to score on Scott this year.

The visitors made a strong start but after working the ball to Scott's twenty yard line apparently shot their bolt for the time being, and Scott rushed the oval eighty yards in successive plunges for their first touchdown. A moment later, Sidel of Marinette picked up a Scott fumble and ran fifty yards for the first score of the year against the Toledoans.

From that point on until the middle of the third period Scott had all the better of the argument, its light backfield men tearing through the Marinette line for big gains, and rolling up a fair sized score in short order.

Marinette came back strong toward the finish, and outplayed Scott in the last quarter, when the forward passing game was used by both teams.

Long runs by Barofsky gave Marinette two more touchdowns, one in the third and one in the fourth period. Capt. Hunt was Scott's star, his best effort being a seventy-five yard run for a touchdown after catching a punt.

BUSHEY'S TRACTOR TEAM WHIPS FOND DU LAC STARS

The Cardinal basketball team of Fond du Lac, composed of such stars as Gustin, Herbst, Eaton and Giedinski formerly of Ripon college, and Watson and Adrain, Fond du Lac men, went down in defeat on their own home floor Saturday night at the hands of a lighter, younger, but faster team when the Uncle Sam Tractor five of Wausau under the guidance of Fred Bushey, showed them the way to the time of 19 to 15.

The Tractor team, with Chapelle and Kuehl, forwards; Madson, center, and Bodden and Anderson, guards put up a dazzling brand of basketball, their extreme speed enabling them to play clear of their heavier opponents and their win over the former college stars was clean cut. The game was the opening of the Fondy season, and was witnessed by a packed house.

GILLO'S KICK IN LAST 5 SECONDS TIES GREEN BAY

Boot On Each Side Results In 3 To 3 Tie Score In Racine Game

Racine—History repeats itself at Horlick athletic field here Sunday afternoon when with five seconds to play Capt. Hank Gillo place kicked from the 35 yard line, enabling the Horlick Racine Legion eleven to tie the Green Bay Packers, 3 to 3. Four weeks ago Racine beat the Packers at Green Bay 10 to 6. The failure of Green Bay to retaliate costs that team a chance at the Wisconsin championship which will be decided when Chicago plays Milwaukee on Thanksgiving day.

Capt. Lambeau made Green Bay's only score in the third quarter on a place kick. Only in this period did the Packers show to advantage over the Legionnaires.

Racine made its downs seven times and Green Bay four times. Cul Buck's punting gave his eleven the advantage in that department of the game.

BIG TEN TRIPLE TIE IS POSSIBLE

Chicago—The possibility of a triple tie for championship in the Big Ten football conference Monday was the speculation of football fans.

Chicago, Iowa and Michigan, by virtue of their wins last Saturday, remained the three leaders in the conference and Monday began a series of hard work out of the final games of next Saturday, determined to retain their positions.

Of the three Chicago apparently will be called upon to play hardest for the Maroons tangle with Wisconsin's husky machine, while Iowa plays Northwestern, considered one of the weaker teams and Michigan meets Minnesota.

Scouts from all three teams have been carefully watching their rivals for the final games of Saturday and this week will impart their knowledge to their respective teams on the drill field.

8-YEAR-OLD-LAD IS YOUNGEST TRAPPER

By Associated Press
Green Bay—The youngest trapper in Wisconsin is located in the town of Denmark, Brown co. He is Claude Seaton, aged 8, who has just been licensed as a regular trapper.

The county clerk of Brown co was surprised to receive a personal application from the youth recently, but after questioning him, he found the lad's trapping desire to be genuine and so furnished the license.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langlois returned Saturday morning from a trip to Chicago where they visited Mrs. Langlois' brothers, Robert and George Schuetter.

QUICK RELIEF FOR YOUR BAD COLD TRY THIS NEW REMEDY AT ONCE

Pleasant Medicated Ointment Known As Muco-Solvent Salve Now Sold By All Druggists For 25 Cents

In answer to the many inquiries received by the Muco-Solvent laboratory, the proprietors have now prepared a booklet explaining the formula and properties of the new salve which is being widely used in the treatment of colds. A copy of this booklet is now packed with each family size jar of the ointment.

Not a Nostrum.
Muco Solvent Salve, so designated to distinguish it from the Muco-Solvent Liquid, which it supplements in cases that have reached the la grippe stage, is a pleasant smelling, greaseless, jelly-like preparation containing oil of turpentine, menthol crystals and several other ingredients long used as curatives. It is applied externally and therefore does not interfere with the digestive or eliminative organs.

How to Use It.
Let us presume you have a light cold only. Muco-Salve will more than likely put it out of business in an hour, maybe less. Simply heat a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors to open the nasal passages. Immediate clearing results. Then with finger insert a little in each nostril and breathe deeply with mouth closed. This draws the vapors into the upper respiratory tract where they soothe and heal the tender membranes. If necessary repeat several times. Simple as A. B. C.

Rib Broken, Appleton High School Player Continues Grid Fight

Extra Weight And Wet Field Gives East Green Bay Advantage—Blue And Orange Loses 21 To 0

Fighting against a team whose superior weight played an important part on a wet field and with one of their own men playing with a broken rib, pressing against his heart, Coach Arthur Denney's high school football squad was forced to accept defeat in the hands of East Green Bay high school at Green Bay Saturday afternoon. The score was 21 to 0.

Odds were against Appleton before the first kickoff. The East Green Bay team, victors over West Green Bay, which Appleton beat by an overwhelming score, is at least 15 pounds heavier per man than Appleton offered. In some instances the Green Bay players outweighed Appleton gridgers 50 pounds to a man. This was particularly true in the case of Schiel and Fischer. Appleton guards, The Blue and Orange men averaged 145 pounds while the men pitted against them were 190 and 200 pounds each.

PLAYS WITH BROKEN RIB
A rib near the heart of Rudolph Fischer was broken in the second quarter but the Appleton guard refused to tell his coach about it and despite the pain, continued to play through the rest of the game. Fischer did not say a word about his injury until after the squad had started for Appleton. Coach Denney observed the paleness of the player and after Fischer admitted that he was in pain, he was rushed to a physician and the broken bone was discovered.

The Green Bay gridiron was covered with water and mud in many places and slipping and fumbling was frequent. The slushy field halted the speed of the Appletonians but was an advantage to the Green Bay men. The heavy team held the Blue and Orange in line plunges and Briese was forced to punt many times on second and third downs.

GET TOUCHDOWN
The first quarter was Appleton's but the Green Bay men scored when an onside kick went in the direction of Quarterback Mills, who failed to pick up the oval and thus permitted a Green Bay man to recover and go over for the first marker. The second and third quarters were Green Bay's and the other touchdowns were tallied. The heavy team tore holes through the line and had the Blue and Orange nearly helpless.

In the fourth quarter, with "Snookie" Heideman playing for Mills, the Appleton squad rallied for one of the best fights demonstrated by Coach Denney's men. Despite the discouraging advantage of the opponents the period was Appleton's, out-gaming and outplaying their rivals in all departments of the game. Forward passes thrown by Heideman carried the oval to Green Bay's 7 yard line but the heavy Green Bay wall held the visitors. Line plunges at an other advanced the ball to Green Bay's 4 yard line.

Bonini at center was the outstanding star for Appleton while Herndon played the best game for the Green Bay team and got most of the markers. Bonini not only took the lead in the offense but played a stellar defensive game. He recovered three fumbles and intercepted a forward pass. Captain Briese did some good punting. Vervey played an excellent game in the line.

Loose Morals Of Country Dance Hall To Be Target Of Proposed State Law

State Health Bureau, Cities And County Boards Are Cooperating To Bring State Control Into What Is Termed Menace

Madison—In years gone by such a thing as state regulation of dances, or control over the morals of the local community, was as rare a conception as airships traveling 248 miles an hour would have been. Whatever crusading of this kind was attempted was regarded as a prerogative of the local government, and even then obstacles in enforcement were frequent enough. As with woman's suffrage and on equal rights law, however, the state of Wisconsin is taking an interest in the personal privileges of its citizens that in other years would have brought ridicule upon the movement and subjected its sponsors to charges of paternalism and busy-bodying.

There is a well defined trend towards bringing some form of state control into the local regulation of amusement resorts. The unchaperoned and unregulated dance hall, especially in isolated country districts, the free use of loose morals offered by the automobile and good roads, and the free use of moonshine liquor in connection with such diversions have brought these problems prominently in the limelight as subjects for legislative action.

BREAK DOWN MORALS

These agencies have long been recognized as aids to the breakdown of moral standards, and investigators in the field of social hygiene, working with the state board of health, found the problem so serious that the board was impelled the past summer to bring it officially before the county boards of the state. In its letter on the subject that body invited active cooperation in curbing these evils. Proper policing of country dances was recommended and assistance sought in a plan to bring about a legislative program next winter which will permit some effective control of these amusements.

One of the recommendations made by the social hygiene workers in the appeal to county boards had to do with the traveling carnivals. It was pointed out that these carnivals are a source of considerable trouble to the traveling carnivals. They are pronounced also an undesirable feature of Wisconsin county fairs, and every exposure of these carnivals in national periodicals, many of which have been printed this year, has commented on their role as disease disseminators and purveyors of vicious intelligence among the young people.

CITIES AROUSED

There are many signs of awakening to the need for local supervision of amusements. Madison, La Crosse, Milwaukee, Superior and Oshkosh recently have adopted stringent dance hall ordinances. In few counties, however, are halls outside city limits regulated.

It is considered probable that the 1923 legislature will be called upon to pass a law for some sort of regulation. In its recommendation to county boards, the state board of health

"We suggest," the communication added, "that such enabling act should also authorize the county boards to employ a mature individual with police powers who will be given full jurisdiction over such places and grant him authority to the county board to prohibit boys and girls under the age of 16 from attending such places unless accompanied by parents of some responsible party."

Detective Began To Believe He Was Doomed

"I thought my case was hopeless until I found Tanlac," declared J. H. Walsh, 606 Portland Ave., St. Paul, Minn., well-known member of the St. Paul detective force.

"For ten long years I was in bad shape from rheumatism and stomach trouble. Whenever I ventured to eat a meal everything would sour on my stomach. I filled with gas and the pressure around my heart nearly cut off my breath. I had splitting headaches and dizzy spells, was so nervous I could get no restful sleep, and I began to feel I was doomed to spend the rest of my days in suffering."

"Tanicac went right after my troubles and now I simply feel great. My appetite is ravenous, everything agrees with me, my nerves are steady and I get plenty of refreshing sleep. I am always saying a good word for Tanlac."

Every Toyland ad will have a Santa Claus letter in it—one of the best ones received, like these. Boys and girls who have not written Santa should put their letters in our box this week. Think how pleased you would be if your letter was reproduced like these!

Toyland Opens Tuesday

Tomorrow is the first real day of Toyland for the season—the biggest, most joyous Toyland you have ever seen. All the trains and engines will be running tomorrow. Boys and girls who come into Toyland tomorrow afternoon can see how everything works. There will be hundreds of toys here, different from any you have ever seen before. In the meantime—do you know what toys do when nobody is watching them?

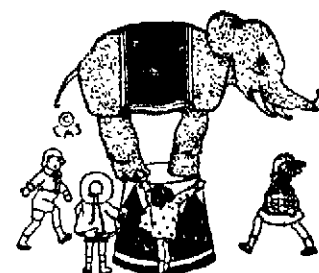

Exciting Happenings Yesterday on Sunday---

Runaway In Noah's Ark

Down at the end of the first counter there was more excitement! All the animals in one Noah's Ark ran away. They made so much noise that the rest of the animals in the other Arks ran after them—and they did have such a time getting back.

These Noah's Arks are just full of animals—every kind you can think of. Carved out of wood across the sea. The houses on them are all painted, with windows and bright roofs. (The two styles at $1.69 and $2.19.)

Circus Elephant Does Tricks.

All the dolls went to the game section of Toyland—for there was the biggest five ring circus you ever saw! These Humpty Dumpty circuses have everything that Ringlings have, you know.

The elephant stood upon a stand and did the funniest tricks. Clowns ran up and down ladders, and there were bare back riders on horses! The circus was really one of the happiest places in Toyland.

(Small circus sets are $1.79; others, according to size, are $2.25, $2.50 and $4.50.)

Drum Parade Ends Terribly

There was a parade of drums—it started out very grand, with the Boy Scout drums in front, and the small and medium sized drums behind. The military drums brought up the back end of the parade.

All went well until the parade tried to get through a narrow space, and then the fattest drum got stuck—so the parade had to stop.

(Boy Scout drums, very well made, with cymbals and a big baton, are $5.50 and $7.50. Big military drums, with extra fine heads, are $14.50. Smaller drums of varying qualities are 39c to 79c.)

Sunday Holdup In Toyland

Over in the corner, there was the most dreadful hubbub. The bears were growling, and a little Eskimo man was running around. A teddy bear had been held-up by a toy Santa from the Christmas tree!

Little wooly brown bears, and large ones on wheels; and white Polar bears; and a white wooly rabbit; and funny cats; were so excited!

(Eskimo dolls are $2.75. White wool bears are $3.49. Wool cinnamon bears, $4.50 and $4.75. Wool bunnies $1.75. Teddy bears, 89c to $2.)

All the Blocks On Floor To-day

None of the toys will own up to the reason—but the blocks WERE on the floor. We think it was that same toy Santa Claus who scared the bears.

(Liberty stone blocks - $2. a set. Alphabet blocks, square wood cubes, brightly printed, 10c, 29c, 39c, 48c and 98c a set. Nested blocks, with pretty pictures and letters of the alphabet. 19c to $5.75 a set.)

Aluminum Auto Caught Speeding

These racing cars are so terribly fast when they get going! A bright aluminum one was caught speeding right down the main aisle of Toyland yesterday afternoon. A big red racing car was "pinched" at the same time.

(Aluminum autos $1.29; red racers 89c. Large green touring cars, 89c. Fire trucks, with ladders, $1.28; fire engines—89c. A Tonerville trolley car—the one that meets all the trains—$1.19. Krazy Kar clown 59c.)

PASS SHIP BILL, SAVE MILLIONS-HARDING

M'Farland Ends Silence; Admits Hand In Robbery

Police Declare Him Master Mind In Safeblowing At Dale P. O.

RECOVER $70 ADDITIONAL

Study Of Trio's Movements Shows They Operated From Twin Cities

John McFarland, the man of many aliases, who was implicated Saturday by his two pals, Phillip Albright and John Albright, brother-in-law of McFarland, in robbery of the Dale post office last week, uttered a confession Monday afternoon after another grilling at the hands of Chief George T. Prim and J. A. Niles, postal inspector.

Another part of the loot consisting of $70 also was recovered. It was found hidden under leaves near a woodpile at the rear of the yard of the John Albright home, 1337 Pine-st. There were two $10 bills, five $5 bills, one $2 bill and eighteen $1 bills. Five dollars in pennies also was found in the house. The bills were badly tattered at the ends as a result of the dynamite explosion.

WAS LEADER
McFarland, it has developed, was the master mind of the gang and directed the movements of his companions. He has been operating out of Chicago and Minneapolis, police say. He has admitted that he was with the Albright boys from the beginning of the operations leading to the postoffice robbery. The two pals, he said, belonged to him.

Mrs. McFarland was admitted to see her husband in the city jail Monday evening, and there was told to go to Chicago to tell his friends that he had "slipped up on a little job" and is "in need of help." He is very much humiliated over the fact that he was caught by "hicktown coppers," as he put it.

The Albright boys have only minor police records. Phillip has been arrested several times for drunkenness, and John was fined $25 last spring for stealing cream at Appleton Junction.

ABOUT TO FLEE
McFarland and John Albright, it was learned by the police, had to leave the city late Saturday night after they had been informed that Phillip was in jail. The police intercepted their flight by about two hours. Milwaukee road and North-western time tables were found lying open on the table and some of the pages bore a few figures indicating that the men were computing the fare.

McFarland came to Appleton with his wife from Milwaukee in July. Police in checking up on his previous movements, ascertained that within 12 days he made deposits of more than $2,000 in a Minneapolis bank. This was between March 27 and April 22. The first deposit consisted of $1,000, the others being of $100, $200 and $300 denominations. McFarland made the deposits in the name of Edward Kane. Another alias he has used is John Moran.

JOINED Y. M. C. A.
While in the Twin Cities he had purchased a membership in the Y. M. C. A. This, he said, was for the sake of the athletics. Police, however, declare it was to assume an air of respectability.

The alleged trio of robbers still is held in custody in Appleton. McFarland in the city jail, and the two Albright brothers in the county jail. Inspector Niles is expected to return from Green Bay Tuesday with warrants for their arrest, after which the men will be taken by United States marshals to Milwaukee to be arraigned in federal court.

Authorities are hoping to connect incriminating evidence relative to the Onida bank robbery with the movements of the alleged bandits. It now has developed that the tread of the automobile tires used by the bandits at Onida was the same as that of the McFarland Buick car that he sold a few days later after a trip to Dubuque, Ia. It also is said that bandits who robbed the Bear Creek bank used a Buick car.

Bad News For Coal Men

Birchwood, Wis. — That the approaching winter will be short and mild is indicated by the number of birds that are still in this region. Robins have been seen here, dandelions are in bloom, strawberry-blossoms have been seen and new leaf buds are again forming upon the trees. Muskrats are not preparing homes for the winter, which would indicate that the winter will be mild.

HIS HARD JOB

WILHELM CUNO
Berlin—Chancellor Cuno is expected to make known Tuesday the names of the men he has selected for his "business cabinet."

At least four members of the Wirth ministry, it has been intimated, will serve at their old posts. For the foreign affairs portfolio it is understood that one of Germany's diplomatic representatives has been named, while the post of justice and economics has been given either to members of the People's party or to Nonpartisan.

AWAIT NOTE OF BLAINE TO LEGISLATURE

Preparation Of Message Will Be First Duty When Executive Gets Back Thursday

Madison—When Governor Blaine returns to his office Thursday after his ten day tour of the central states on a sales campaign for Wisconsin products, he will be confronted with the immediate task of formulating a legislative program and preparing his message to the 1923 session of the legislature.

This message will be an all-important document in view of the complete control held over both houses of the law-making body by the La Follette-Blaine faction of the Republican party. The governor's recommendations are expected to go a long way in determining the temper of the legislators as they proceed to enact laws to meet their promises to constituents.

HAS OPEN FIELD
It is notable that the platform on which the governor and other candidates for state office were elected, contained few planks referring to state issues. This fact leaves the field wide open for the governor when he lays down specific proposals with recommendations that they be enacted by the legislature.

That he has to say on taxation, highway legislation, rural credits, legislative interrogation of members of state commissions, consolidations of boards and commissions, and motor-bus regulation, is going to be looked on with special interest when the session convenes Jan. 10.

BOB TAKES CHARGE
Politicians here consider significant the fact that Senator La Follette before leaving for Washington, called Assemblyman John L. Dahl, administration leader in the lower house, to Madison for a conference on a proposed program of legislation. This conference took place during Governor Blaine's absence from the state and involved matters on which the governor has made no expression of his position.

NEWBERRY ACT SAVES NATION MUCH TROUBLE

Exit Eliminates Congressional Fight—Chance For Extra Legislation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922 by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington — Truman H. Newberry's exit from the United States senate removes what might otherwise have been an embarrassing controversy for the administration of President Harding and something which might have had serious effects on the country as a whole through the inevitable delay in important legislation that would have resulted.

Although there were without question enough votes to oust Mr. Newberry from the senate in the session which would have brought into office the congress elected on Nov. 7, the insurgents in the senate had mustered enough strength to bring the matter to a head once more in the session to be begun in December. It would have been a close vote in the December session and a long drawn out party fight and Mr. Newberry has relieved his party and the administration of one of the most perplexing burdens it has carried in years.

LIKED BY COLLEAGUES
For first of all Truman Newberry was liked by his colleagues. He wasn't pictured as the symbol of corruption in politics but as the victim of over-zealous friends with pockets bulging to beat Henry Ford whose war-time views irritated and exasperated them. Mr. Newberry would have resigned his seat immediately after his first election if it had not been the advice of his party associates to stick to his guns.

When the Newberry case was made an issue in the last campaign in Michigan, Mr. Newberry made up his mind to resign his seat immediately after the elections. His idea then was to wait until Senator Townsend was elected as any resignation before the election might hurt his colleagues' chances. Now, however, Mr. Townsend has been beaten and largely on the Newberry issue. He might have had some chance if Mr. Newberry had retired earlier but the "ifs" of the case are not material now.

DEMOCRATS PLEASED
The Democrats are naturally pleased that the fight which they in company with a group of Republican progressives waged in the senate has been successful but even the resignation of Mr. Newberry will not make the Democrats forget that it was with Mr. Newberry's vote that the Republicans had a majority of one in the United States senate in the spring of 1919 and that by that vote the Republicans were able to organize the senate and put a majority of their own number on all the important committees. Had Mr. Newberry been ousted or resigned three years ago the Democrats would have been able to name the committee chairman. Mr. Lodge would not have been at the head of senate foreign relations committee and the Versailles treaty with the League of Nations covenant in it might have received more friendly treatment in the senate.

All that is history now, but the Democrats will naturally make the most of Senator Newberry's resignation and join Mr. La Follette and his colleagues in the radical group in the framing of legislation to prevent excessive expenditures.

By American Press
New York—August Reuter, a farmer from Westphalia, Germany, his wife, Natalia, and a child ranging from Olga 25 down to three months old Lena, are enroute west Tuesday to settle down on a farm near Green Lake, Wis. Immigration authorities passed Reuter and his family with record swiftness Monday when they reached Ellis Island.

"We are keen to turn over this good American soil and make two blades of grass grow where there was but one," he said. "We know how to farm. I can turn a furrow as well as the next man and the frau can milk a cow and do everything a woman is expected to do on a farm."

I wouldn't think of taking such a flock of children to one of your American cities.

Woman Wins Seat For Day In Senate

Eighty-Seven-Year-Old Georgia Representative Takes Oath Of Office And Establishes Precedent

By Associated Press
Washington — Mrs. W. H. Felton, the "grand old lady of Georgia" won her fight Tuesday for a seat for a day as the first woman senator.

Without objection from any senator but after a long delay during which the status of her appointment to the senate was reviewed in the light of precedent, Mrs. Felton took the oath of office at the vice president's desk and wrote her name in the senate membership book.

Resignation from the senate of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, center of a bitter election contest for the past four years, became effective Tuesday when his letter or resignation was presented and read in the senate.

The administration merchant marine bill with amendment agreed to Monday by Republican members was formally reported out of the house merchant marine committee Tuesday without a record vote while President Harding was arranging to go to the capitol and address a joint session of congress in the interest of the legislation.

MISS SCHULTZ TO RESIGN AS NURSE

County Nurse Notifies Board Of Her Intention To Leave Early Next Year

Miss Bertha Schultz, county nurse, on Tuesday offered her resignation to the county board of supervisors, to become effective Jan. 21, 1923. The resignation was read to the board just before its adjournment and was placed on file without discussion.

Miss Schultz was the first county nurse in Outagamie-co. She was appointed almost two years ago. She said she had no reason for resigning other than she wished to take a rest. Miss Schultz would not say whether she contemplated leaving Appleton.

There has been considerable discussion in the county board sessions over the cost of maintaining the county nurse and several members of the board would like to abolish the position but a state law compels them to employ a nurse. Miss Schultz denied that the discussion in the board meetings promoted her resignation.

WIFE'S LOVE GONE; SUES FOR $25,000

By American Press
Kewanee, Wis. — Edmund Melera of Green Bay asks the sum of $25,000 from Frank Wessely, of West Keweenaw, for the latter's alleged alienation of his wife's affections. Melera has started divorce proceedings against his wife on account of the suit. The plaintiff charges that Wessely alienated Mrs. Melera's affections and that he coaxed her into his home in West Keweenaw, where he harbored her for several years. The defendants have denied all charges.

VICTOR

This is a very recent picture taken of Mrs. W. H. Felton, 87-year-old appointee of Governor Hardwick to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Thomas Watson of Georgia, who Tuesday became the first woman senator of the United States when she won her seat for a day in the senate. W. F. George was elected senator at the regular Nov. 7 election and will fill Mrs. Felton's place later.

FURNACE FIRM LOSES $650 IN NIGHT ROBBERY

Police Believe Theft At Holland Furnace Company Is "Inside Job"

Only a day after a bandit gang was captured in Appleton, another robbery occurred in the Holland Furnace company store, 689 College-ave. In which $630.60 was taken from the drawer of a desk. The work was done Monday evening.

The robbery was reported to the police by L. O. Egeved, local representative of the company about 11:15 Monday evening. A window pane had been broken, appearing as if entrance had been made in this way. An attempt clearly had been made to force open the drawer with a chisel.

An investigation conducted by Chief George T. Prim leads him to believe that the robbery was an "inside job." The strange part of the performance was that the window pane had been cut from within, rather than from without, he said. He also is of the opinion that the drawer could not have been forced open by a chisel in the manner that the marks on the drawer indicate. It is possible that it was opened with a key, he said.

If the theft had been committed before 11:15, it probably follows that it took place between the hours of 10:15 and 11:15, the chief believes, for at shortly after 11 o'clock, Patrolman Samuel Ford had tried the rear door and found nothing out of the ordinary.

HUNT RICH RADICAL; OTHERS BEGIN TERMS

Chicago — William Bross Lloyd, wealthy radical, still was outside of prison Tuesday as 12 of his associates started on the second day of their prison sentences, six of them in Joliet prison and seven in the Cook-co. jail. Lloyd, according to his counsel, voluntarily will give himself up Thursday. However, the faith of his attorneys has not kept officials from scouring the country for him. But as yet no trace of his present whereabouts has been reported.

Without deviation from the usual custom, the six men sent to Joliet for a term of one to five years, were printed, measured, recorded and assigned to cells. No special favors were shown to those who were imprisoned in the county jail.

LABORITES OF ENGLAND NAME PARTY LEADER

MacDonald Replaces Clynes After Incident In Parliamentary Ceremony

BULLETIN
London—James Ramsay MacDonald Tuesday was elected leader of the parliamentary labor party.

London — Parliamentary writers have already decided that the new house of commons will be livelier than its predecessors and that the position which will apparently be furnished by the Laborites, will be keener and more aggressive.

The prospect of increased keenness of debate, due to the importation of new and young blood, is welcomed in all parts of the house and the prediction of liveliness is based mainly on the accession of debating ability to the ranks of labor. The attitude of some of the Laborites, as well as several of their English comrades towards the old time formalities of the opening day, is suggestive of defiance and a desire to "smash," but the more radical among them will have at their sides a large number of old parliamentary hands of their own party who, although yielding to none in keen advocacy of the party's aims, appreciate that violent haste often defeats a purpose and are quietly content to acquiesce in parliamentary conventions. It was evidently with the intention of checking the demonstrations of some of his more militant followers that John R. Clynes, chairman of the party declared that the party believed in constitutional methods and would do its utmost to maintain the dignity of the house.

Whether Clynes will retain his post as party leader will be decided at a party meeting Tuesday. The Laborites however are regarded as having been established as the opposition by an incident in the house Monday when Clynes headed the procession alongside Premier Bonar Law. When the premier rose all the men stood. Clynes and H. H. Asquith were to gather opposite the premier, Clynes mostly hesitating until Mr. Asquith gently pushed him forward. The labor leader then fell into line with Mr. Bonar Law.

ALLIES UNITE AT LAUSANNE PARLEY

Unity Is Proclaimed By Delegates—Hold Private Conference Tuesday

By Associated Press
Lausanne—Delegates to the Lausanne conference with the preliminary oratory concerning the close relations of Great Britain, France and Italy behind them, faced Tuesday the real test of the strength of the ties which spokesmen for the three powers have insisted existed among them.

The conference meets in private session Tuesday for purposes of organization and to start the actual work of making peace with the Turks. For centuries Turkey has been able to protect herself by getting European nations to quarrel among themselves over the Near Eastern question. The rivalry of France, Italy and Great Britain for supremacy in the Levant has been the protection of weak sultans in the past and it remains to be seen whether it will also be of service to Mustafa Kemal Pasha and his Angora associates.

Ismet Pasha and his associates of the Turkish delegation to the conference appear less confident than when they arrived and the feeling is growing that they will reduce their program materially in the hope of restoring peace and reestablishing trade relations with the outside world.

President Talks To Congress On Subsidy Measure

HARDING'S SPEECH

The following is part of President Harding's speech before congress Tuesday in which he urges passage of the administration ship bill and broader relief to the farmer.

Members of Congress: Late last February I reported to you relative to the American Merchant marine and recommended legislation which the executive branch of the government deemed essential to promote our merchant marine and with it our national welfare. Other problems were pressing and for one reason or another which need not be recited, the suggested legislation has not progressed beyond a favorable recommendation by the house committee. The committee has given the question a full and painstaking inquiry and study and I hope that its favorable report steadily will be given the force of law.

It will be helpful in clearing the atmosphere if we start with the frank recognition of divided opinion and determined opposition. It is no new experience. Like proposals have divided the congress on various previous occasions. Perhaps a more resolute hostility never was manifest before and I am very sure the need for decisive action—decisive, favorable action—never was so urgent before.

FOR WAR OR PEACE
We are not dealing with a policy founded on theory, we have a problem which is one of the grim actuality. We are facing insistent conditions out of which will come either additional and staggering government losses, national impotence on the seas, or else the unfurling of the flag on a great American merchant marine commensurate with our commercial importance to service as carrier of our cargoes in peace and meet the necessities of our defense in war.

There is no thought here and now to magnify the relation of merchant marine to our national defense. It is enough to recall that we entered the World War almost wholly dependent on our Allies for transportation by sea. We expended approximately three billions extravagantly, wastefully and imprudently. Out of our eagerness to make up for the omissions of peace and to meet the war emergency we built and otherwise acquired the vast merchant fleet which the government owns today. In the simplest way I can say it, our immediate problem is not to build and support a merchant shipping which I hold to be one of the highest and most worthy aspirations of any great people; our problem is to deal with what we now possess. Our problem is to relieve the public treasury of the drain it is already meeting. Let us omit particulars about the frenzied war time building. Possibly we did full as well as could have been done in the anxious circumstances. Let us pass for the moment the vital relationship between a merchant marine and a commercially aspiring nation. Aye, let us suppose for a moment the absurdity that with one $3,000,000,000 experience and with the incalculable costs in lives and treasure which may be chargeable to our inability promptly to apply our potency—which God forefend happened again—let us momentarily ignore all of these and turn to note the more business problem, the practical question of dollars and cents with which we are confronted.

TELLS OF LOSSES
The war construction and the later completion of war contracts, where completion was believed to be the greater economy to the public treasury, left us approximately 13,200,000 gross tons of ships. The figures are nearer 12,500,000 tons now owing to the scrapping of the wooden fleet. More than half this tonnage is government owned and approximately 2,250,000 tons are under government operation in one form or another. The net loss to the United States treasury, sums actually taken there from in this government operation, averaged approximately $16,000,000 a month during the year prior to the assumption of responsibility by the present administration. A constant warfare on this loss of public funds and the draft to service of capable business management and experienced operating directors, have resulted in applied efficiency and enforced economies. It was very gratifying to report the imposition of a total of $50,000,000 a year; but it is intolerable that the government should continue a policy from which

United States Suffering Staggering Losses From Present System, He Says

"WORLD OPPOSING PLAN"

Geographical Or Partisan Objection Should Not Stand In Way, Is Plea

By American Press
Washington—Enactment of the administration merchant marine bill was urged upon congress Tuesday by president Harding as necessary to relieve the government of present "staggering losses" in operation of the war built merchant fleet, and to establish a program of assured shipping to serve the nation in war and give it guarantee of commercial independence in time of peace.

Personally addressing a joint session of the house and senate the executive declared an actual monetary saving to the government would result from the proposed law. He challenged every insinuation of favored interests and the enriching of the special few at the expense of the public treasury. The legislation, he asserted, automatically guarded against enrichment or puppetal bestowal.

"If success attend, as we hope it will," he added, "the government outlay is returned, the insurance of opportunity to earn, remains, and American transportation by sea is maintained."

The president said concern about the American merchant marine policy was not limited "to our own domain," adding that the maritime nations of the world, "were in complete accord with the opposition here to the pending measure." He declared those nations had a perfect right to such an attitude but that he wished to stress the American viewpoint which he said should be the viewpoint "from which one sees American carriers at sea, dependence of American commerce and American vessels for American reliance in the event of war."

Mr. Harding declared it would be most discouraging if a measure of "such transcending national importance" must have its fate depend on geographical, occupational, professional or partisan prejudice. A commercial influence on the seas and ample agencies for the promotion in carrying of American commerce, he asserted, were of no less importance to the people of the Mississippi and the Missouri valley, the great northwest and the Rocky Mountain states, than to the seaboard states and industrial communities inland.

"COMMON CAUSE"

"It is a common cause with its benefits commonly shared," said he. If government aid is a fair term to apply to authorizations aggregating $15,000,000 to promote good roads for market highways, the president added, it is equally fit to be applied to the establishment and maintenance of American market highways on the "saturated seas."

As to present government operation of the shipping board fleet, Mr. Harding said there was the unavoidable task of wiping out a $50,000,000 annual loss and losses aggregating "many hundreds of millions" in worn out, sacrificed or scrapped shipping. He called attention that the government ships were being worn out without any provisions for replacement and that a program of surrender and sacrifice and the liquidation which he declared would be inevitable unless the proposed legislation were enacted would cost scores of millions. The cost of the proposed legislation giving direct aid, he said, with ocean carrying maintained at the present average would not reach $20,000,000 a year and the maximum direct aid if American shipping were so promoted that it carried one half the nation's deep sea commerce would exceed $30,000,000 annually.

Sultan Misses Wives

Constantinople — Officials of the Sultan's palace Tuesday received a radio message from Mohammed VI., who has fled to Malta, inquiring after his wives, all of whom he left behind. The following reply to his inquiry was forwarded: "All are well and happy." Turkish newspapers Tuesday asserted that the sultan took with him $500,000 in currency and several hundred thousand dollars worth of jewels as well as a field marshal's uniform.
